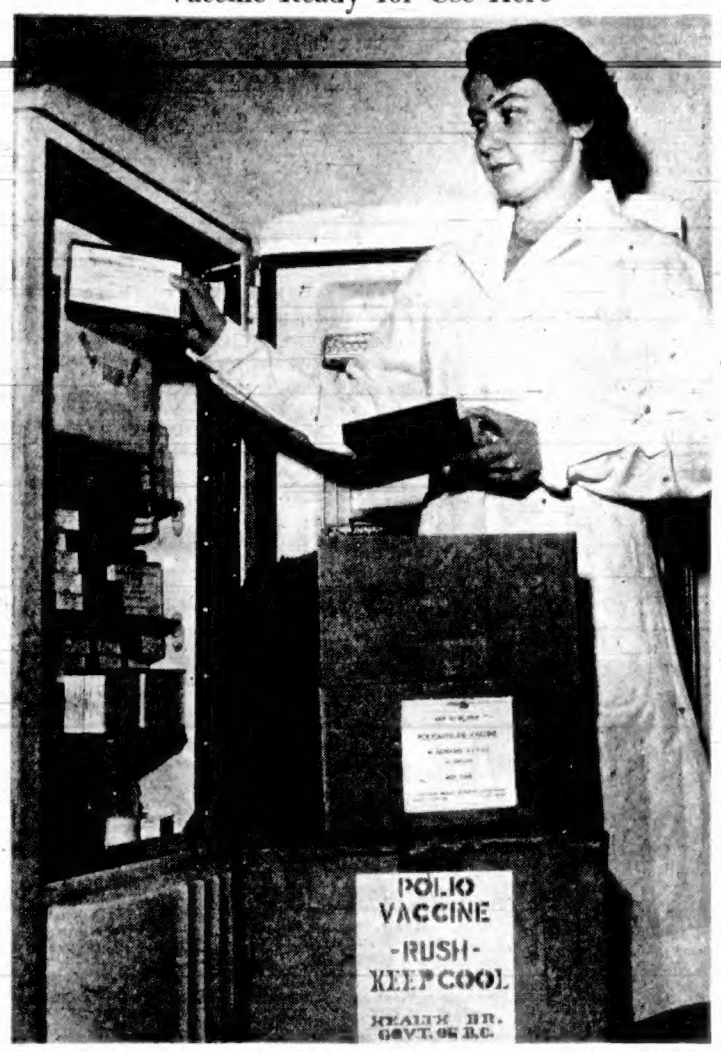
Vaccine Ready for Use Here



Salk vaccine—which may mean a virtual end to polio—has arrived on Vancouver Island for inoculation of primary grade and pre-primary children, the age group most often affected by the disease. Mary Dickinson, public health nurse, here places vaccine under refrigeration. Inoculations begin April 18.

Medical World Awaits Proof

Salk Vaccine Can Conquer Polio Historic Report To Show Today

Mass Inoculations May Soon Follow

From CP, AP and UP Reports

Salk vaccine is expected to conquer polio—just as smallpox and yellow fever have been virtually eliminated from the modern state.

Scientists will announce today conclusive proof of the efficacy of the Salk vaccine—with which thousands of Greater Victoria children will be inoculated, starting April 18.

At 7.20 a.m. Victoria time the Salk Vaccine results will be given to the world at the annual conference of the American National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., speaking before American and Canadian senior scientists, will confirm that the vaccine can "wipe out polio," says a dispatch from Ann Arbor, Mich.

At the same meeting at the University of Michigan, Dr. Jonas E. Salk, discoverer of the vaccine, will give his all-but-final findings of closely detailed experiments with his vaccine on 8,000 persons, mostly children.

Dr. Francis, University of Michigan epidemiologist, makes his medically historic report after studying for a year the results of vaccination of 440,000 children in the United States, Canada and Finland.

So optimistic is the scientific world that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is already planning to switch its effort to some other field of public health — possibly the control of mental illness.

Dr. Salk, says one dispatch, will show his vaccine a success in the vast majority of cases—which means that when the bulk of a population has been inoculated, especially the children in most susceptible age groups, the disease will begin to disappear, as smallpox and yellow fever have all but disappeared.

DR. JONAS E. SALK

Seek New Field

On the basis of this expectation, Dr. Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, says he and the other trustees of the foundation have decided that their organization would not be dissolved but would work in some other field.

Dr. Francis' announcement is expected to start machinery for mass inoculation.

Connaught laboratories of the University of Toronto, which developed the pure chemical medium in which the polio virus is grown for vaccination purposes, have produced enough vaccine for 600,000 children and have distributed it for use across Canada.

Until last night, at least, Dr. Francis hadn't even told Dr. Salk or anyone else his findings. He was picked for the job of making a scientific analysis because, as one colleague said, "no one can push him around."

Dr. Salk, the University of Pittsburgh research man who once studied under Dr. Francis, and several other prominent scientists will follow Dr. Francis at the conference. Dr. Salk is expected to report new findings from his laboratory which would make the vaccine better than it was at the stage of development when it was used experimentally last year.

At a press conference, Doctors Salk and Francis estimated it would be far too optimistic to expect 100 per cent protection from the vaccine, but it wouldn't need to be 100 per cent effective to be a successful vaccine.

Canada, says an Ottawa dispatch, will move quickly to boost production of the Salk vaccine.

Mass production is possible at the Montreal Institute of Microbiology as well as Toronto's Connaught Laboratories.

By next July, Canada could provide enough vaccine to inoculate 1,000,000 school children, at a cost of about $1.50 each.

Polio Fighters Won't Quit Yet

Kinsmen in British Columbia will continue their "fight polio" campaigns until they are certain that polio is one of the "forgotten diseases," provincial governor E. F. N. Robinson of Ladysmith said last night.

He said an alternative project such as mental health would be "a good idea," but said Kinsmen might turn to schemes of benefit to their own communities rather than a new major project.

"We have never given any consideration to a change because we never realized polio might be at an end," he said.

The matter is almost certain to be considered when Kinsmen clubs of District 5 (British Columbia) hold their annual convention in North Vancouver next month, he added.

Face Retreat—or Hazard of War

Stevenson Hits Eisenhower For 'Dead End Policy in Asia'

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai Stevenson said Monday night the Eisenhower administration's Far Eastern policy has put the United States into a position where it faces "either another damaging and humiliating retreat, or else the hazard of war."

He said he has "the greatest misgivings about risking a third world war in defense of "Quemoy and Matsu islands, Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist outposts off the Red China coast.

Stevenson said in a broadcast on two radio networks that the Eisenhower administration is "pursing a dead-end policy in Asia," dictated by political expediency at home.

The 1952 Democratic presidential candidate said dissension with America's allies over U.S. policy in regard to the two islands—"the weakening of the grand" alliance of free nations pledged to stand together to defend themselves, is in my judgment a greater peril to enduring peace than the islands themselves."

Soviet Russia should be invited "to declare her position," to indicate whether it prefers the possibility of ultimate settlement by agreement to an unpredictable, perhaps limitless conflict."

Stevenson, who said he was speaking in response to requests for his views on U.S. Far Eastern policy, described that policy as "based more on our political difficulties here at home than the realities of our situation in Asia." He urged that "our government promptly consult our friends, yes, and the uncommitted states, too, and ask them all to join with us in an open declaration condemning the use of force in the Formosa strait" and agreeing to "stand with us in the defense of Formosa against aggression."

After 100-Mile Row

Queen's General Hospital said Amos Boucher, 59, of Port la Tour, was in the worst condition of the five who stumbled ashore from their open dory near here Sunday night after a 39-hour row from the spot where the fishing vessel Irma and Rog II sank beneath them.

Doctors said Grant Low, 48, of Greynoldcraft village, joyfully discovered he could see again when he opened his eyes Monday morning after his first sleep since early Friday when the Irma and Rog II went down with 25,000 pounds of fish jammed in her hold.

Boucher froze both hands and doctors said it might become necessary to amputate one or two fingers.

The hospital attributed Low's temporary blindness to shock and the stinging spray that lashed the men for hours on end.

All five were treated for frozen hands or feet.

Low's companions left him lying on the beach because they were too weak from hunger and exposure to carry him and he was too done in to walk. They stumbled 1½ miles to the home of Clyde Smith at St. Catherine's river.

The Smiths fed the men, put them to bed, then called the RCMP and Dr. James MacLeod from Liverpool. The doctor and the police struggled through "mud up to your knees" along the makeshift road and brought Low back to the house with a horse and wagon.

The Irma and Rog II had been inward bound to Port la Tour from the La Havre fishing banks when she began leaking. She sank within minutes.

Teacher Shortage Serious

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia "cannot hope to solve" its shortage of teachers by "importing" them, Hilda Cryderman, president, told the 36th annual convention of the B.C. Teachers' Federation here Monday.

The shortage "must be solved on the home front," she said.

Miss Cryderman said in the next seven years the estimated school population of the province will increase by 100,000. This will mean an additional 4,000 teachers will be needed in the seven years.

Labor Chief Begins Tour

MONTREAL (CP)—Labor leader Clement Attlee of Britain Monday side-stepped a question as to whether he considers Sir Anthony Eden a "weaker" political opponent than Sir Winston Churchill.

When a reporter noted that Mr. Attlee hesitated on the question, he said with a smile:

"I'm always careful of personalities."

The former British prime minister, who will try to regain power in an election that is freely predicted to come soon, was cagey when queried as to his opinion regarding the date.

When reporters referred to speculation that May 26 would be the date, Mr. Attlee replied:

"Yes, it's mentioned quite a lot, isn't it."

Mr. Attlee said there is no doubt the succession of Sir Anthony Eden to the post of prime minister of Britain will have a bearing on the election but what exactly is hard to tell."

"I always hope to win," he said when asked about his chances.

Queried about Aneurin Bevan, stormy petrel of the British Labor party who recently apologized for defying Attlee policies in the House of Commons, Mr. Attlee said:

He said it is "possible—yes, certainly" that Mr. Bevan would become a minister in the event Labor was successful in the forthcoming election but no thought had been given to "allotment" of a portfolio as yet.

Boy Dies In Car Plunge

TONASKET, Wash. (CP)—A six-year-old boy from Trail, B.C., was killed and the three other members of his family were injured Monday when their car plunged down a 100-foot embankment four miles east of here.

Killed instantly when the car careened off the highway was Stanley Kenneth Craig, son of Rev. and Mrs. H. O. Craig of Trail.

Mr. Craig is pastor of the Christian Alliance Church in Trail.

Church Fire Cause Probed

OTTAWA (CP)—Police and fire authorities Monday investigated the possibility that an arsonist may have set the three-alarm Easter Sunday fire which gutted the Sunday school auditorium of mid-town Chalmers United Church and spread damage through the church itself.

Reds Attempt To Disrupt CCF

A "definitely Communist" organization known as Box 16 has been trying to disrupt the CCF in British Columbia with anonymous letters for a year, a Saanich CCF leader confirmed last night.

But the former MLA, Frank Snowsell, disagreed with Vancouver reports that described the organization as an underground movement within the CCF.

"I have no reason to suspect that it includes CCF members," he said.

DRIVE PLANNED

Vancouver's two afternoon newspapers said the executive of the British Columbia CCF party is expected to begin a drive to root out Box 16 at the opening session of the CCF provincial convention Friday.

Their reports followed announcement at Toronto that 14 members of the CCF party in Ontario have lost their membership for belonging to a Communist organization, identified as the Canadian section of the fourth Trotskyist international.

Mr. Snowsell said he had heard nothing about an executive drive against the Communists and another Saanich leader, Dr. J. M. Thomas, commented:

"As far as I know there has been no issue at all in such terms as the Vancouver papers use."

Both Dr. Thomas and Mr. Snowsell admitted that there was some difference of opinion within the CCF over the handling of the Rod Young case last year.

Nice Day for a Spin

Phantom Appalls Brooklyn Drivers

NEW WORK (AP) — The phantom driver of Sheepshead Bay was safely in custody Monday after scaring the wits out of a dozen motorists and a policeman. He turned out to be an eight-year-old boy.

The youngster, Frank Biondo, decided it was a fine day to visit his grandmother, who also lives in the Sheepshead Bay area of Brooklyn.

No one was awake, so he started up his dad's new auto and off he went toward Ocean Avenue.

The phantom led them on at speeds up to 60 miles an hour, weaving in and out of traffic.

The phantom clipped a cab at one corner but went on. Finally he brought the car to a smooth stop.

"Why, it was simple," he told Leone. "There was nothing to it."

Crushed Revolt Led by Brother

Enraged by Harem Dispute, Desert King Crushed Coup

CAIRO (UP)—The desert king of Yemen, infuriated by a dispute over his harem, personally led a bloody assault that foiled his brother's attempt to seize the throne, it was reported Monday.

The decisive harem incident was disclosed by Lieut.-Col. Hussein El Shaffei, who led an Egyptian mission to the remote desert kingdom after King Imam Ahmed crushed the palace revolt led by his brother, Prince Abdullah.

He disclosed that the key incident leading to the crushing of the revolt was a clash over the harem women between forces loyal to the monarch and followers of his brother.

The king requested his brother's men to permit the women to be evacuated from the harem to another palace, Shaffei reported. The insurgent garrison commander, however, insisted on searching all the women before letting them out.

TOOK UP ARMS

This was reported to have so angered the king that he immediately took up arms against the besieging force. Ahmed himself fired on the revolutionaries and was quickly joined by his supporters in a successful rout of enemy forces, Shaffei reported.

Daffodils Wanted for Shut-Ins

First Collection Friday

Colonist Again Sponsors Share the Flowers Plan

BY LAWRIE JOSLIN

The Daily Colonist's popular Share the Flowers plan, which brought brightness and cheer to hundreds of shut-ins in the Victoria area last year, is to be re-introduced this year.

Seth Halton, publisher of the Colonist, said yesterday the paper has decided to reorganize and sponsor the plan again as a public service.

Share the Flowers won the gratitude of hospital patients, the generous support of home gardeners, and high praise from community leaders when it was first introduced by the Colonist last July.

Through the plan, home gardeners are able to offer surplus blooms from their gardens for collection and distribution among hospital patients and other shut-ins unable to enjoy the pleasures of a garden.

Daffodils, golden queens of the early spring garden, will be collected from donors Friday morning and taken the same day to patients at the Veterans Hospital and Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Further collections and distributions will be made on succeeding Fridays while the daffodil season lasts.

Share the Flowers will operate at intervals throughout the spring, summer and fall as other varieties of flowers become available in quantity.

Distribution will be rotated as it was last year among a number of hospitals and nursing homes in the Greater Victoria area.

St. Joseph's Hospital, Rest Haven Hospital at Sidney, St. Mary's Priory, the Gorge Road Hospital, the Aged Women's Home, the Aged Men's Home and the Naval Hospital at Esquimalt will all receive surplus blooms in addition to the two institutions benefitting from the first collection.

Home gardeners with more daffodils than they can use are asked to phone the Colonist at 3,4111 before 5 p.m. Thursday.

Volunteer drivers will be needed again this year to collect flowers and bring them to a central collection point. Each driver will be given a short list of addresses for collection.

Drviers willing to assist are asked to phone the Colonist by 10 a.m. Thursday.

It would be appreciated if donors would tie their daffodils in bundles or wrap them in paper for collection.

Mr. Halton said there is no question of the success of Share the Flowers if the gardeners who have made Victoria famous as a city of gardens prove as warm-hearted in their response as last year.

News Famine Alters Habits Of Londoners

LONDON (Reuters)—London ended its 18th day without newspapers Monday night and its 10,000,000 frustrated inhabitants wearily dug in for more days without news, race results or advertisements.

The strike by 700 technicians has changed the face of the capital and altered the living habits of its people.

If the ordinary citizen is frustrated by not having the daily stand-bys, business men are tearing their hair because for them the strike means red figures in the ledgers.

But the newspaper famine has done the city good in one way: the streets are cleaner than they have been for years. The few newspapers available are so precious that nobody crumples them up to throw into the gutter.

BUSINESS DOWN

The city's legalized bookmakers have lost 80 per cent of their business, simply because the bettors can't get details on the horse races. They are doing their best to give their customers the information by telephone.

The BBC gives racing results on the radio, but not starting prices. So the bookies are plagued each night by streams of telephone calls.

Magazines do their best to help relieve the strain on the millions who bet on weekly soccer pools. Their regular readers are astonished to see space given over to publishing the "dividend" figures for the winners.

Other business men hard-hit by the strike are theatre impresarios, movie managers, taxi drivers, department store owners and florists.

VOICELESS CRITICS

Theatre-goers depend on what critics say about new shows, and this has created alarm among producers planning openings. Fortunately, there have been few first nights. After one of them, a theatre manager got hold of what the critics had written—but not printed—and put the good word in huge posters in his marquee. Another manager used loudspeaker trucks to tell the people.

Impresario Jack Hylton is reported worried because he plans the London premiere of the New York musical, "Kismet," within two weeks, and he needs the advance publicity. "Kismet" opened during the New York newspaper strike in 1953—but television did nicely there in getting the word around.

TRADE SECRETS OUT

London's big florists are having a slight slump in the wreath business. They think this is because people can't read about friends' deaths in time.

The cabbies are losing business because they are used to pinpointing big social occasions by checking the papers. When they don't know what's going on they fail to catch the big-wigs as they leave the big hotels.

Department stores are suffering because of a fall-off in mail-order business, which depends chiefly on newspaper ads.

The biggest losers, of course, are the newspaper owners, now near a loss estimated at £1,500,000.

The newspapers, distributed nationally, were shut down because of a strike by 700 maintenance mechanics and electricians seeking higher wages. The case has been investigated by a government-appointed court of inquiry which will report to Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton this week, probably Tuesday.

Colonist Snapped Up In London

Copies of The Daily Colonist arriving in London three and four days after mailing are snatched from the hands of readers by news-starved travelers in underground railway carriages and buses.

Factory hands are ready to fight for them.

This story is told in a letter to Arthur Lane, 2079 Quimper, a Daily Colonist circulation department employee, by his nephew living in London.

News services have carried stories of fist fights for out-of-town newspapers since a strike stopped London's presses nearly three weeks ago.

But Mr. Lane was astonished to learn that fellow-travelers on London's Tube eagerly read his nephew's Daily Colonist. So do factory hands at his place of employment.

"There's a scramble by underground travelers to get a look at the Colonist," Mr. Lane reports. "It's practically torn apart at the place where my nephew works," he added. "They're ready to fight for a turn at it."

Plan for Solo Try Called Off

Would-Be Lindbergh of Strait Still Confident He Can Make It

John Giese is still confident he could have gone down in history as the "Lindbergh" of Juan de Fuca Strait.

The 25-year-old German immigrant refuses to believe he would have gone down to doom in the tide-swept 18-mile stretch of water in an unescorted solo swim attempt.

With quiet confidence last night, after he had been dissuaded from the solo stunt, he said:

"I think I would have made it. If I had not I would have drowned, and I don't want to do that."

He may make an escorted attempt today.

CAUGHT FEVER

He caught the strait-swim fever last summer after hearing of Flo Chadwick's unsuccessful attempt.

Giese, who arrived in Canada three years ago after escaping from East Germany, arrived unheralded in Victoria from Vancouver Saturday.

He has since made two unescorted swims in Ross Bay and intends to have a crack at the strait, although he thinks now he will have a boat accompany him.

But tides or Miss Evelyn Bradford of Summerland, B.C., may call a halt to his plans.

Giese said last night that he did not intend to encroach upon Bert Thomas' attempt, scheduled for Wednesday.

AUGUST BEST

Island Tug and Barge officials told him the next time for proper tides will be August, he said.

He fears that Miss Bradford, his fiancee, may stop his swim.

"She doesn't know I am in Victoria or of my plans, but I have sent a letter to her which she should get Tuesday morning," said Geise.

A lithe young man, Giese was employed in Vancouver sacking coal until last week.

"Things got a bit slack, so I decided to try the swim," he said. Training swims have been made off Second Beach at Vancouver.

He plans to have a medical check-up this morning, and then inquire from strait experts about tides and winds.

Giese says he will use a breast stroke to carry him across. He covered himself with cod-liver oil for yesterday's swim at Ross Bay, and was in the water almost an hour.

"I didn't feel it cold," he said.

Giese admits never having covered 18 miles before, but two years ago he held up the Westbank-Kelowna ferry for half an hour when he strayed into its path while swimming across the Okanagan Lake.

Giese states that his mother and four sisters were killed by Russians in East Germany after the war. His father was taken to a concentration camp and never seen again.

He is living at Firwood Lodge, 905 Cook.

France Faces Crisis

PARIS (Reuters) — France faces a new political crisis because of an "inquest" into the conduct of military operations which led to the siege and fall of the fortress of Dien Bien Phu in Indo-China a year ago.

Defense Minister Gen. Pierre Koenig, who during the week end announced the appointment of a military commission to investigate this piece of history, has started a controversy which may prove one of the bitterest France has known.

Political responsibility for the eight-year war in Indo-China is the tenderest spot in French party politics. For most of that period, leaders of the Mouvement Republicain Populaire were in charge of Indo-China affairs.

Immigration Policy Change Not Planned, Pickersgill Says

In spite of claims that immigration is upsetting the balance of domestic employment, there will be no change in policy at Ottawa.

"None whatever," was the quick rejoinder of Immigration Minister John Pickersgill when questioned yesterday by The Daily Colonist on the possibility of revision of rules of entry by immigrants.

Mr. Pickersgill will speak to the Oak Bay Liberal Association in Oak Bay High School auditorium at 8 p.m. today. He and his wife and their four children are staying at the home of his father-in-law, John T. Beattie, 2660 Currie Road.

The minister said there is "little direct relationship" between level of employment and immigration, because the government does not encourage immigration in occupations which already have high employment levels.

POLICY SAME

"The policy has been the same since Mr. Mackenzie King introduced it May 1, 1947," he said.

"It is to increase the population through selective immigration so as not to change the fundamental character of the Canadian people," he said. "And not to admit people in greater numbers than can be absorbed into the Canadian economy."

Mr. Pickersgill pointed out that this policy has increased employment because the 1,200,000 immigrants to Canada since the Second World War have become consumers and have started new industries.

Of the 154,000 immigrants last year, fewer than 400 received federal aid. Total of immigrations so far this year "has not been quite as much" as that of the same period in 1954, he said.

STILL OPPORTUNITIES

Despite the "very considerable number of unemployed, there are still opportunities for jobs in some lines, such as farm labor," he said.

In other fields, there is "flexibility," and many of those out of work do not remain that way long, he added.

Mr. Pickersgill said federal policy in Indian affairs is to integrate Indians into the community as quickly as possible.

He supported use of the same schools by white and Indian children and said of the problem of liquor for Indians, "They should be subject to the same laws as everyone else, if that is the way they want it."

Garden Notes

Easter Lily Blooms in July

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS.

Easter Lily.—(R. L. Y., Port Alberni). When your potted Easter lily finishes bloomnig, knock it out of its pot and plant it in a sunny spot in the garden. Set it in the ground about two inches deeper than it was in its pot, mixing peat moss or leaf mold and bone meal in the planting site, and water in with a few drops of vitamin B1 in the water. It will help if you can arrange some small shrubs or other plants to cast some shade over the roots, while leaving the stem in full sun. Keep it well watered and fed all summer, and don't cut it down until the topgrowth has died off completely in the late fall.

Your lily will never bloom again in time for Easter, as its normal flowering period is in July. You need a greenhouse and special forcing facilities to produce blooms in April.

The Easter lily is a native of Formosa, but most of the florists' bulbs are grown commercially in Bermuda, St. Helena, and Japan.

Peach Leaf Curl.—S. A. M., Esquimalt). I am afraid you have missed the boat as far as controlling the peach leaf curl disease of your tree, as it should have been sprayed in January or early February, just as the blossom buds were swelling.

The traditional spray for this disease in the past has been lime-sulphur, half a cupful to a gallon of water. While I haven't had occasion to try it yet, I believe the new fungicide, Captan, sold under the trade name of Orthocide, will prove to be more effective.

All you can do now is to pick off by hand every leaf which shows the characteristic symptoms of curling, blistering, and red coloration. Burn these leaves, and make sure none is left lying around under the tree. Keep your tree well watered and well fed, and mulch it heavily with manure, straw, sawdust, grass clippings or what have you.

In Ontario, old-time gardeners have told me that the disease can be cured by digging in grape skins from a winery around the roots. In Georgia, they use orange and grapefruit skins the same way. I can't vouch for these practices, as I have never seen a case cured in this way, but I'd welcome anything any of my readers can tell me as to how this works. Until I get some real evidence, though, I'll stick to dormant spraying.

* * *

Peony Planting —(J.S.R., Victoria). Although the best time for planting or moving peonies is in the late summer and early fall, spring planting will usually give good results. The plants will grow just as well, but sometimes the spring-planted specimens will sulk and refuse to bear any flowers for a year.

Make your planting holes big enough to take the roots without cramping, and mix up a soil mixture for filling in as follows: good loam or topsoil, two parts; damp peat moss, one part. To each bucketfull of this mixture add six tablespoons of pulverized limestone, one cupful of bone meal, one cupful of wood ashes.

Don't take off any sprouts which may have started, but plant so the top of the roots, where the sprouts are merging, is exactly two inches below the soil surface. This is important, for you'll get nothing but blind buds if you put them in too deep. Water several times as you do the filling in, using a few drops of vitamin B1 in the water, but finish off with loose, dry soil on top. The site should be full of sun, except for the pastel-shade varieties, which will tolerate a little shade.

Regarding your wall-trained peach tree, any branches growing straight outward (called "breat wood") can be cut off now. The tree won't bleed enough sap to worry about.

Killed by Car

A former Victoria and Saanich resident, Miss Roma Hartley, has been killed in a car accident at Erie, Pa., where she had lived for the last two years.

Her mother, Mrs. Lillian Hartley, and a sister, Evelyn, were badly injured when their car was struck April 1 by a hit-and-run driver.

Bridge Clinger Rescued

MONTREAL (CP) — An 18-year-old delivery boy hung to a girder 165 feet above street level on the Jacques Cartier bridge for almost an hour Monday before being dragged down by a friend.

More than 1,000 persons watched from the bridge and the street below as Andre Tremblay of suburban Ville Jacques Cartier clung to his precarious perch screaming "I'm going to kill myself."

First word of the abortive suicide attempt came when the youngster telephoned his employer, Lucien Royal. Royal, owner of a butcher shop, said the youth cried into the telephone: "I'm going to kill myself, send somebody to pick up the bicycle. I'm going to leave it near the bridge."

Royal said he had planned to discuss a shortage in collection money with the youth Monday night.

Remi Mailloux, a truck driver friend of Tremblay's reached the youth, covered his body with his own, and began the tortuous descent. A fall would have sent them both plummeting 165 feet to busy Notre Dame street.

Rapids Beaten At Hell's Gate

NORTH BEND, B.C. (CP) — A 38-year-old North Bend prospector became the first man to shoot the Hell's Gate rapids on the Fraser river last week, but he says he won't do it again.

Prospector Bill Deziak shot through the thrashing rapids to gain access to river sand bars to pan for gold.

He made the terrifying run in a tiny, six-foot boat, square on both ends.

Hell's Gate is a narrow canyon in the Fraser river bed where the level drops about 11 feet within a few hundred yards. It is about 85 miles northeast of Vancouver.

There is no record of anyone shooting these rapids before, nor of anyone trying it.

HAD NARROW SQUEAK

Deziak "just made it by the skin of his teeth," said the lone witness to the feat — Hugh Dunlop, who maintains the multi-million dollar fishways at Hell's Gate.

"He told me he underestimated the power of the water and would never try it again," Dunlop said.

Deziak has navigated the treacherous Fraser from Lillooet since March 10, prospecting along the way.

Dunlop said the prospector made the run in less than two minutes.

The actual rapids are about 200 feet long and the water roars through the gap at 22 feet a second in violent waves and whirlpools. At high level the water is about 250 feet deep.

Dunop, who has been at the fishways for 12 years, said as far as he knows the feat has never been attempted before. "At least I've never heard of anyone trying it."

Simon Fraser, in his historic voyage of exploration by canoe that resulted in the river being named after him, portaged around the rapids. He followed an Indian portage trail that traversed the rocks hundreds of feet above the river by a system of primitive ladders.

Pigeon-Holed Air Crew Trains for New Season

BY DAVID BROWN

After being "pigeon-holed" for the fall and winter, Charles Woolley's air crew is fueling up and training for the coming racing season, set to start May 22.

Mr. Woolley's racers are homing pigeons, currently spending the off-season at home base—specially constructed roosts behind his Inlet Avenue home. Each pigeon has his own apartment and challenges any intruding brother.

Mr. Woolley is secretary of the Victoria and District Racing Pigeon Club, one of two such organizations in the area.

The dozen members of the club enter their birds in races, bordering on endurance tests, from as close by as Agassiz and as far off as Lethbridge, Alta., from May until September.

"We have sprinters and distance specialists just like track and swimming competitors," Mr. Woolley pointed out.

MARATHON

Longest race of the season covers 500 miles "as the pigeon flies," and is reserved for "old birds" in the prime of racing life — around five years. The Lethbridge-Victoria marathon takes place in July.

Club members ship their distance stars to the Alberta city by express with orders to the agent there not to release the birds until an official telephone call is made from Victoria.

Before starting the race, the weather is checked all along the route for rain, wind velocity and ceiling, which plague pigens as well as airliners. The second the birds are released, special time clocks are set at each club member's home base.

As soon as a pigeon returns to earth at Victoria, the owner quickly tears off a rubber identification band from the bird's leg, folds it in a capsule and drops the capsule through a hole in the sealed time clock which automatically marks time of arrival. The clock is then sent to the club's time recorder who adds handicaps and determines the winner.

FAST TIME

Some birds in the marathon are still in the air two days after the race starts but last year's Lethbridge-Victoria winner covered the distance in 18½ hours.

"Young birds"—those in the first racing year—are limited to sprints during the early part of the season.

"It's hard to believe, but some of my young birds competing this season haven't hatched from their eggs yet," Mr. Woolley said.

"I was a rabbit fancier long before I got the pigeon bug," he says. He still maintains a hutch of prize rabbits and is often called upon to judge in rabbit shows all over the Northwest.

WOULDN'T LET GO

"My son, Bernard, started raising homing pigeons in 1935 and developed a few good ones. When he went to war in 1940, I took them over and got so interested in them I wouldn't let them go again after the war."

Bernard now has his own racing pigeons at his home nearby.

Mr. Woolley was born in Staffordshire, England, in 1877, and has lived in Victoria since 1910. A carpenter by trade, he is now retired.

He has won just about every trophy in pigeon racing and has had his name engraved on The Daily Colonist Cup ten times in the last 12 years. The cup is for the best "old bird" average time.

When in perfect condition, the racing birds weigh about a pound. Their training table contains a heavy diet of protein food, mostly peas, corn, groats and a little wheat. Dessert includes linseed, flaxseed and canary seed "to keep them in tune."

Mrs. Woolley says her interest in pigeons is confined to the excitement of the racing season but Mr. Woolley has been primping his feathered friends all winter in preparation for another winning season.

Flooding Manitoba Streams Reach Peak To Ease Threat

WINNIPEG (CP) — Thaw-swollen rivers and creeks continued to floor over thousands of acres of southern Manitoba farm land Monday but the provincial flood-forecasting committee said the peak on some streams appeared to have been reached.

The committee, in a report released Monday night by Premier D. L. Campbell, forecast a crest of 18 feet above average winter ice level on the Red River at Winnipeg. This would be slightly below minimum flood stage and more than eight feet below the level of dikes built after a disastrous flood in 1950.

At 9.15 p.m. CST the level was 17.7 feet. Officials at the Water Avenue pumping station said the water's rise was slowing and the increase was only about 1/20th of a foot an hour.

The rivers flooded to 24 feet in 1948, 30.3 in 1950.

No casualties were reported as a result of the floods but more than 200 farm homes were reported surrounded by water. Most were in rural parts of suburban St. Vital, southeast of Winnipeg, flooded by the Seine River. In the Oakville-Poplar Point area, 30 miles west of Winnipeg, more than 30,000 acres of farm land was under water. Some farmers in the Elie district reported two feet of water in their homes.

Clement Attlee Plans To Relax in Victoria Prior To Making Speech in Memorial Arena

Clement Attlee, former British prime minister, will get a chance to relax when he visits Victoria Monday during his 18-day speaking tour of Canada, which begins at Port Arthur today.

Itinerary of the British Labor party leader, who will speak to an expected capacity 6,800 persons in the Memorial Arena, was disclosed yesterday by Frank Snowsell, chairman of a CCF committee arranging the Victoria visit.

Mr. Attlee was met by national CCF leader M. J. Coldwell, Quebec CCF leader Mrs. Pierre Casgrain and Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal when he reached Montreal by air yesterday.

SPEAKING DATES

He will speak at Regina Wednesday, Calgary Thursday and Vancouver Saturday before he arrives in Victoria aboard a CPR steamer Monday morning.

With Lorne Ingle, national CCF secretary, who is the only person accompanying Mr. Attlee, the Labor party leader will have breakfast in a suite in the Empress Hotel.

The Victoria CCF committee will take him to city hall at 10 a.m. for a brief visit with the mayor and reeves of this area, after which Mr. Attlee will go on a sightseeing trip which is to take in Butchart Gardens, the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory and as many other places of interest as possible.

L. A. "Larry" McClung, a Gray Lines driver, will take Monday off to devote himself and his car to Mr. Attlee, Mr. Snowsell said.

Mr. Attlee will lunch at "a restaurant out of Victoria," he added.

INFORMAL CONFERENCE

Following an informal press conference in the Empress Hotel at 4 p.m., Mr. Attlee, Mr. Ingle and the committee will have supper at the hotel. Following the meeting at the arena, Mr. Attlee will leave at midnight.

Program at the arena will be opened by music played by the Mount View High School band, through special arrangement with the Greater Victoria School Board and the Musicians' Union.

Chairman of the meeting will be Mr. Snowsell, and Arnold Webster, provincial CCF leader, will introduce Mr. Attlee, who is expected to speak on international affairs alone.

Tax Dodgers All

FORTHCOMING court tests of the validity or otherwise under the BNA Act of certain sections of Saskatchewan's sales tax act are important to this province because of the fact that the British Columbia and Saskatchewan acts are almost identical, except in the rates of tax. From the general public's point of view interest centres mainly in the challenge to the right of a provincial government to collect sales taxes on goods which travelers bring back with them from other countries or provinces.

Whatever the outcome of the legal contest may be, this part of the sales tax law is unworkable for the simple reason that it is absurdly easy to evade. The government can and does collect from all motor vehicles brought in from outside because registration requirements afford a complete check on all such purchases. There is no way at all of checking on technically taxable articles which returning private citizens bring into the province among their effects. Not long ago someone in official circles made the brilliant suggestion that the Province should establish inspection offices at all border entry points, but that notion was soon discarded as impractical for obvious reasons and also wholly unacceptable to the traveling public.

The effect of keeping this section in the act all these years has been to make a tax-dodger out of almost every resident of British Columbia who has journeyed outside the province. The act requires a returning traveler to declare his purchases, even trifling items like a handkerchief or a tube of toothpaste, and pay tax on them to the provincial sales tax collector. How many do so? Not one in a thousand—probably not one in ten thousand. British Columbians who go on shopping expeditions to the south bring back goods to the value of hundreds of thousands of dollars over the year, but the amount of tax the government collects on these personal purchases wouldn't keep one clerk supplied with blotting paper.

In theory—if the government had any way of catching up with them—tens of thousands of respectable British Columbians could be prosecuted for sales tax evasion; including, it seems safe to say, some of the legislators themselves. The average person feels not the slightest twinge of conscience in ignoring a responsibility that legally is just as binding as his duty to make returns of income. A law governing behavior which the people in general refuse to obey is usually acknowledged to be a bad law and repealed. This is patently a bad tax.

Friendship Treaties

SO long as the Cominform is in existence "friendship" treaties between Soviet Russia and non-communist nations will not be worth the paper they are written on. One such treaty—that signed by Messrs. Molotov and Ribbentrop prior to the Second World War—would make very curious reading now alongside the British and French friendship pacts which it seems the Kremlin is preparing to tear up. It was full of Soviet protestations of good will for Hitler's Germany in mutual alliance against the "plutocrats" of the world. Time has brought a few changes since then. Adenauer's Germany is not Hitler's Germany. If the West finds it necessary to rearm in self-defense, Germany has not been the cause of that, but Russia.

Examining the record with detachment possible only to history, future historians will not have much difficulty, one suspects, in arriving at the reason why the world is an armed camp today. Russia's refusal to disarm after the war period was neither an act of friendship towards its former allies, nor any ground from which to accuse the West of militancy. Disputes between wartime allies have been fairly common throughout history, but there surely can have been none before which came into being in unilateral fashion through suspicion run riot. If Soviet Russia in 1946 had in fact disarmed no other nation would have needed more than a corporal's guard.

The record, however, reads otherwise. The solemn trust laid upon the powerful nations of the earth at the initial conference of the United Nations at San Francisco was to compose the earth to peace. The one nation using its plenary powers to veto any and every step taken by the majority in that direction was Soviet Russia. And so for 10 years it has been; without change, without the slightest variant, without any justifiable excuse. It is a little late in the day for the Kremlin to speak of lost friendships and non-operative pacts. Was the Iron Curtain a bid for friendship? Only a change of heart at Moscow could work any real improvement in the current relationships across it now. There has been no evidence whatsoever of any Soviet change of heart. There are new names and new faces, but the actions are unchanging.

If Russia tears up these two treaties for whatever small political effect that might have in Europe it will be admitting that its diplomacy, its vetoes and its intransigeancy in the United Nations counsels have failed. Friendship does not rest in acts of spite, but in an honest and earnest meeting of minds among those who are actuated by good will. Other than petulance, what has the new regime in Moscow to offer to the cause of international understanding? That is the question.

Parochial Protest

A NEEDLESS fuss has been made by some people, particularly in the east, about Mr. Clement Attlee's visit to Canada; not in objection to him personally but because he comes here under the auspices of the CCF party. This is somehow supposed to be quite wrong, just as it is alleged it would be if the Progressive Conservative party brought out Sir Winston Churchil to speak to Canadians or the Liberal party some prominent British Liberal leader, if nowadays such can be found. It must be a deep diehard of any stripe, or a very timid one, who would offer objection on any such flimsy ground.

It is claimed of course that the CCF party will make propaganda capital out of Mr. Attlee's visit. This need not worry anyone unduly. The former British prime minister will not be aiming to convert Canadians to the socialist cause, nor is it likely he could succeed in any case to appreciable extent. Mr. Attlee is too skilled in tact, and in fact in natural delicacy, to be either so foolish or so naive. He can be trusted, like most British politicians touring Canada, not to speak out of turn. These critics seem to forget that he is a distinguished man whom it should be a pleasure for Canada to entertain.

Certainly when he visits Victoria next week the Memorial Arena will be crowded with many more than CCF supporters. In the main his audience will not be interested in the pros and cons of party favor but in the man himself. Mr. Attlee is a widely respected figure, a man of integrity and personal worth, who served the allied cause well as a member of the wartime Churchill government. He is a former prime minister of Britain. If Canadians no matter what their political affiliations could not listen to such a speaker with interest and without prejudice then they would be small-minded indeed. In this city anyway he is assured of a courteous welcome and an attentive hearing, irrespective of his sponsorship altogether.

Desperate Tactics

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

BY going to work first on Austria's Chancellor Raab the Russians have handed out a good tip on the nature of the last desperate tactics they will use in an effort to prevent rearmament of West Germany.

If their current efforts were directed basically at an Austrian settlement they would bypass Raab as ineffectual and go directly to the three Western powers with whom they will have to settle in the long run.

They propose to do this, however, only after they have wrapped Raab up in some fine-sounding proposals which he will be politically required to urge upon the Allies.

* * *

One such thing is the proposal for all foreign troops to withdraw from the former German satellite in return for a guarantee from the Vienna government that it will not join any alliance directed against any country which fought Hitler.

The Russians would like to make neutralization of Austria a major plank in the treaty. The West, with Austrian acquiescence, clings to the contention that Austrian independence must be complete, as promised long ago, and that it cannot be so unless she has the right to make up her own mind about such things.

The Russians obviously think, however, that if they can get a neutralized Austria they can then create quite a stir against rearmament in Germany by proposing a similar status in return for reunification there.

Some Western observers believe that in order to create such a situation with regard to the larger problem, the Russians might come up with Austrian proposals which could be accepted. Nearly all the issues have been settled for a long time.

Thinking Aloud Gerald Waring

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

SHOULD the newly-formed Canadian Guards imitate quite so slavishly Britain's Brigade of Guards?

The answer will depend on the point of view. Personally I think they've gone overboard.

Once they get their fancy-dress uniforms they'll be the living image of the men who Troop the Color on Horse Guards Parade. Unless you know your plumes or get close enough to read a shoulder badge you won't be able to tell a Canadian Guardsman from a British Grenadier.

The pomp and polish, the relentless drill system, the pace-stick, the exaggerated kick-step at the halt—all these and more have been adopted holus-bolus.

Over in London the Guards fit in. They belong to the tapestry of British life, to its social and military gradations. Even the toy-soldier look of a Lifeguardsman in Whitehall is of a piece with the rich anomalies of a history-encrusted land.

* * *

I am not so sure about Guardsmen of that ilk on the Canadian scene; especially at the expense of other Canadian units.

There isn't any doubt it's an affront that a new regiment—"never fought and never defeated," as one irate Ottawa MP described it—should be given precedence above all the battle-tested units of the Canadian Army.

According to General Simonds, as cited in an interesting Maclean's article on the Canadian Guards, "They HAD to rank first. Guards always do. It's tradition, you know."

Maybe, but if the British Army deployed for battle tomorrow in old-time straight-line style the Guards wouldn't have pride of place at the right of the line; that spot belongs elsewhere.

Funny thing, too. The same article quotes a Canadian Guards adjutant explaining away the lack of battle honors to new recruits, thus: "An outfit is good, not because of its past but because of its present."

If that be so why cross the Atlantic to borrow a tradition? Obviously the general and the adjutant should get together on this point.

* * *

Individually, however, the Canadian Guards are not all neophytes. They are liberally sprinkled with medal ribbons, because the 1st and 2nd Battalions—there are four altogether—were created out of the Princess Pats and the Royal Canadian Regiment. Seemingly this was the result of an "invitation," but if the Pats and the RCRs concerned transferred of their own free will this is another strange business.

We are assured, however, that the social nuances of the British Guards aren't being copied by the Canadian Guards. No Canadian Guardsman has yet been ordered to salute every passing bowler lest it might contain a Guards officer in civvies. The officers' mess won't be reserved exclusively for socially correct and eligible young men.

And it's sheer coincidence that London tailors have been over here to measure them for dress blues.

Reports from Ottawa

AFTERTHOUGHTS on the budget are quite pleasant, and there's even an amusing one; that 24 hours before Finance Minister Harris presented his budget to Parliament he feared it would be his last. He even visualized winding up his speech with a dramatic announcement that he was resigning, in heroic but traditional atonement for not just a mere leak of a budget secret, but the leak of the whole budget.

What prompted Harris' thoughts of resignation in disgrace, like the former British chancellor of the exchequer, Hugh Dalton, was a practical joke pulled by the Montreal Gazette's prankster reporter in Ottawa, Arthur Blakely.

On Monday night the Finance Department delivered advance texts of the first nine pages of the budget speech to reporters in the Parliamentary press gallery. This material, covering only prosaic matters like the state of the economy, was given to reporters on a hold-for-release basis so they could digest it in advance of the main part of the speech.

Blakely took the nine mimeographed pages of Harris' speech, and then dug out of his files the full text of former minister Abbott's budget speech last year—also mimeographed. He ripped off Abbott's first nine pages, substituted those of Harris, and flaunted his "complete text" before his press colleagues. He even let them peek at the "tax changes".

* * *

Within minutes finance officials were thrown into a tizzy by telephone calls about the budget leak. A white-faced aide rushed to Harris and broke the news. Harris was stunned. He accepted the report without question, although bewildered as to how the department's elaborate security arrangements had failed.

His officials urged him to go immediately to Prime Minister St. Laurent and seek the latter's help to stop the budget from getting any further than the press gallery. Harris, not an impulsive man, stalled for time. He wanted to think it out.

He then went into the Commons to attend to his duties as House leader, but a great anxiety preyed on his mind. He emerged from the Commons at 10 p.m. to find the source of his fears wreathed in smiles. The aide who had raised the alarm reported that it was all a joke. The budget secrets were safe, and so was the minister's political future.

* * *

What happened Tuesday night further enhanced Harris' political prospects. It's often said that the finance portfolio is the kiss of death for men ambitious to climb higher; that men responsible for taxing the people are not good choices for party leadership.

That may be true for finance ministers who increase taxes, but it can scarcely be so for those who reduce taxes.

Harris carefully refrained from claiming his tax cuts would be a cure-all for the country's current economic ills, but he's betting they will help. Abbott never gambled as Harris is gambling—that national productivity at the year's end will equal what it might have been if there had been no 1954 slump.

But then Abbott never had Harris' apparent unconcern about deficits, an unconcern born of belief that the country's basic economic strength can well support the moderate red-ink operation to which Harris has committed the government this year.

The Packsack

Growing Jaded

By GREGORY CLARK

COULD it be that the advertising profession is growing a little jaded? Perhaps our newspaper ads are just as brisk and challenging as ever. But in radio and TV there are signs that the boys are running out of ideas.

Of course, in radio and TV advertising, they are associated with show business. And as everybody knows, in show business they are so short of ideas that whenever anybody does give birth to a new one, everybody in the business wildly clambers on board, with a slight modification of the same idea.

This is most obvious in motion pictures. We get pictures in rashes. A good picture on psychiatry is immediately followed by 10 pictures on psychiatry. Right now, we are suffering from a rash of biographical pictures. Let one producer go subterranean, and the whole industry dives into the sea.

* * *

Radio and TV ad men must have caught the infection. A few years back somebody conceived the novel idea of jingles. Soon the whole industry was ringing with jingles, until they at last became so unintelligible that no listener listened any more.

When I discussed this with an advertising relative of mine, he informed me hotly that, since his pet product had invented a jingle, sales had gone up 10 per cent.

"How do you know the newspaper ads didn't do it?" I checked.

But the advertising profession is a clergy in its own right. It has its articles of faith, to question which is blasphemy.

* * *

Fairly recently, one advertiser announced that his product contained PU2, or some such mysterious ingredient.

We heretics watching, breathless, sensed a stunned silence for a week or two.

Then, suddenly, from every side, came the response. Soaps, gargles, toothpastes, wrist watches, boots, canned soup—or am I exaggerating?—anyway, suddenly, the whole radio and TV world burst with the exciting news that products contained BL43 and OG 16 and OW30, until the befogged listener and viewer began to get the bissoups.

We oldtimers can recall the day when an advertiser's pride lay in the fact that his ads looked like nobody else's.

On the Record

Three-Way Plebiscite

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE British cabinet has been considering a guarantee of support for the United States in Formosa, with certain reservations. They want Chinese Nationalist forces withdrawn from Quemoy and Matsus and advocate a plebiscite allowing Formosans to choose whether they want the Nationalist or Communist government.

We believe the unresolved political status of Formosa to be the crux of the war danger. As long as the Chinese government installed there lays claim to all China, no settlement is conceivably possible.

That this is the issue of peace or war seems indicated by the fact that no hostile threats whatever have been made by Peiping against British Hong Kong—which is closer to the mainland than Quemoy or the Matsus. Eventually the Red Chinese may claim and try to take it. On the other hand, they may see advantages in Hong Kong as a free port to balance their dependence on the Soviets. The British recognize the Peiping government and no Chinese party in Hong Kong is claiming other Chinese territory.

The importance of this difference should be patent. To draw an analogy: during the American civil war British sympathies were strongly with the South, chiefly for commercial reasons. The agricultural South wanted to trade in a free world market and not be dependent upon Northern financiers and tariff-protected industries. For a while it was nip and tuck whether the British would diplomatically recognize the Confederate government and give it one or another form of aid, thus interfering in the American domestic struggle.

However, wiser counsels prevailed and the war between the states was not turned into an international war.

If, however, the contrary course had been taken and the Confederate government and army facing defeat within the United States had escaped under cover of the British fleet to Bermuda, where, supported and equipped by the British is was making forays on the continental U.S. and continuing the Civil War, what would have been the attitude of the federal government? Does anyone doubt that Grant's army would have seized Bermuda from Great Britain whenever it was prepared to risk war with Britain?

* * *

Therefore we go on repeating that the political status of Formosa is the chief issue making war more than likely and making impossible a settlement that would keep Formosa within the American Pacific defense chain.

The British proposal for a plebiscite deserves support. But Formosans should certainly have another alternative than to choose between the government of Chiang Kai-shek and that in Peiping, namely whether, like the Philippines, they would prefer an independent republic under the temporary protection of the United States.

Furthermore, if it were to be a fair plebiscite of Formosans, only those should be permitted to vote who were residents before the great influx of mainland Chinese. Or the questions should be separately presented, all being permitted to vote on the first alternatives but only native Formosans on the issue of independence. Should such a plebiscite register a majority for independence, the mainland Chinese should be granted the privilege of formally becoming citizens, returning to the mainland, or seeking asylum elsewhere in the free world.

This will not please those who still hope to see the Nationalists re-established in Peiping. Their wishes are father to their not-at-all realistic thoughts. But we are not under the illusion that the Nationalists in Formosa and the American fleet and air force can defend Formosa and win a clear victory for the Nationalists by a strictly limited war. Limited wars can be long and costly but they cannot achieve a dictated peace. They can only end with a negotiated peace.

Since that is how a war over Formosa would end anyhow, unless turned into a world war, it seems sensible to try to negotiate for its prevention.

There are diplomatic channels available for the attempt, even though the United States does not recognize the Peiping government.

With the Classics

As the clouds that are so light,
Beautiful, swift, and bright,
Cast shadows on field and park
Of the earth that is so dark,
And even so now, light one!
Beautiful, swift and bright one!
You let fall on a heart that was dark,
Unilluminated, a deeper mark.
But clouds would have, without earth
To shadow, far less worth:
Away from your shadow on me
Your beauty less would be,
And if it still be treasured
An age hence, it shall be measured
By this small dark spot
Without which it were not.

Letters to the Editor

The Legion

On behalf of the members of Sooke Branch No. 54, may I express our appreciation for your splendid editorial tribute of March 29 to the Canadian Legion.

For 30 years, veterans of the Legion have been battling for legislation which has been grudgingly granted and many ex-servicemen who are now receiving pension and other benefits can thank them for their team work and persistent effort. Now, we need more members to carry the load and continue the fight. This, in future must be borne by veterans of the 1939-45 and Korean wars.

As past president of 15 years' service in a country branch I appreciate that the Legion as a whole depends on such branches for its strength, and as we have to maintain our representation without the financial advantages of a club license, a strong membership is desirable.

We have been in the fight, with our larger branches, since the Legion was formed over 30 years ago and desire to continue.

Your timely words are an inspiration to those of us who still serve and a challenge to those who are content to "let George do it."

In conclusion, I am sure that all veterans will wish to express their grateful thanks for the loyal and unswerving support they have had from the Colonist over the years.

P. W. deP. TAYLOR,
Sooke, B.C.

Alcoholics

There have been several letters on alcoholism in your newspaper recently, deploring this all too general depravity. But no motives or reasons given for the unfortunate who falls under the spell of a temporary alcoholic oblivion in order to forget.

To mention some of these motives: the loss of an irreplaceable friend, wife, husband or so forth; a rank injustice that has deprived one of a valued position; an inferiority complex engendered by some undeserved and unforeseen frustration.

Alcoholics Anonymous are a wonderful organization. But the term stultifies alcoholics even anonymously. It appears to me that an organization of the type of the defunct Oxford Group Movement handled the situation more thoroughly and secretly. Men and women in certain groups attracted others with like problems, and by friendship, understanding and sympathy helped each other to overcome this and other vices.

Music Festival

In covering the session of the recent Greater Victoria Music Festival, your reporter, Mr. H. Binny, did an excellent job, and I wish to thank your paper and Mr. Binny for the splendid publicity you gave the festival during the eight-day session.

While not so well attended as in former years, the board of directors feel the work entailed in promoting such a festival is justified. The young students gained much useful knowledge through contacts with such fine adjudicators as Miss Tholen, of Portland, and Mr. Glyndwyr Jones, so well known in B.C. from his choral work.

It is quite probable that changes will be made to hold the festival at a later date, as in former years, and the board is considering the advisability of joining the Federation of Music Festivals in order to take advantage of well-known British and Canadian adjudicators, which, we hope, may stimulate interest in next year's festival.

Bus Numbers

Mr. Mortimore had an excellent little piece in his article about the desirability of having the bus numbers fixed on top of buses in as conspicuous a position as possible, like taxi drivers' notices.

As it is, one has to run along a line of buses to pick out the right one. People come hurrying down the street. I have been knocked over in this way. At other times I have missed the bus while I was reading the destinations on the side of the bus.

Two Attitudes

In Sunday's Colonist Rev. William Hills refers to such as I as bickering foolhardily about the difference in the religious and scientific attitudes. Why should those who deplore this difference and seek to find a compromise be criticized by him in emotionally-toned words?

Would the upholders of the two above-mentioned attitudes understand each other's point of view better if they changed their language?

Professor J. Z. Young in "Doubt and Certainty in Science" aparently thinks that such a course would be helpful. He writes: "We can look back with pride at human achievements, but surely everyone looking at the difficulties that still face mankind must feel that we should try to improve even further on the system of communication provided for us by philosophers, theologians and scientists."

Damaged Ship Leaves City

The 7,243-ton vessel would not have been able to enter drydock here for five days and left for repairs at Port Angeles or Seattle.

Deck of the freighter, which is to load ore at a coastal port, was cracked amidships but damage was described as minor. The former Liberty ship was proceeding from Yatawa, Japan.

Jet Pilot Dies To Avoid City

ATSUGI, Japan (AP) — A United States marine pilot sacrificed his life yesterday rather than let his FJ2 Fury jet crash in Yokohama's crowded streets. The plane crashed into a hillside seven miles east of the naval air station here after the pilot, whose name was withheld, developed engine trouble over Yokohama but refused to bail out over the city.

Southern France In Wine Revolt

MONTEPLLIER, France (CP)—The mayors of 250 towns and villages in the Herault department of southern France have handed in their resignations in protest against "government failure to maintain the price of wine." They threaten to close town halls to prevent polling during forthcoming local elections, and wine-growers are believed to be planning new demonstrations against government wine policy.

Thrill Murder Theory Also Studied

Revenge Suspected in Killing of Child

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Smirle Lawson, supervising coroner for Ontario, said Monday he believes eight-year-old Judy Carter was killed by someone who knew her. He thinks it was a revenge killing.

Police are also working on the theory it may have been a "thrill" killing.

The finding of Judy's body Saturday on the bank of a creek in Markham township, 17 miles northeast of here, gave police few clues. They know little more than they did when she first disappeared from an east-central street near her home February 25.

They do know she was murdered by someone who used her own wool scarf to strangle her. But they don't know why.

The possibility that her killer might be a sex deviate was ruled out after an autopsy indicated she had not been sexually attacked.

ONLY MARKS ON NECK

"She was dead before she was thrown in the water," said Dr. Lawson. "The autopsy showed that her lungs were dry. There were no marks on her body except on the neck from the tough knots. It definitely is not a case of a sex attack."

Dr. Lawson said Judy probably was murdered on the day she was kidnapped, but there was no way of telling from the autopsy.

"I definitely believe she was strangled by someone she knew, someone who lives in the area where she lived.

"[illegible] crime I can think of is revenge against her family," Dr. Lawson added.

Judy's shoes and gloves were missing when the body was found. Edward McDonald, a farm worker, told police he had found the two-buckle shoes set side by side on a culvert bridge, upstream from where the body lay.

McDonald told police he noticed the shoes there March 19, three weeks after Judy disappeared. He took them home and, when the body was found Saturday turned them over to police.

Minimum Milk Price Remains at $5.03

Minimum producer prices for milk on Vancouver Island and in Greater Vancouver will not be changed at this time, E. C. Carr, chairman of the provincial milk board, said yesterday.

Mr. Carr announced Saturday that the provincial government is drafting new regulations which will restore controls to milk prices at the producer level.

He said regulations to give the board power to enforce a price of $5.03 for 100 pounds of 3.5 per cent butterfat milk would be completed within a week or 10 days.

The chairman added yesterday that it is not the intention of the board, at this time, to recommend any change in minimum producer prices for Vancouver Island and Greater Vancouver.

What's news at Inco?

DUE TO THE CORROSION-RESISTING QUALITIES of nickel and nickel alloys they are widely used for vessels in which pharmaceuticals are prepared. Even small amounts of metallic compounds in a drug can impair its effectiveness.

INCO NICKEL HELPS SAVE LIVES BY PROTECTING THE PURITY OF DRUGS

AN AMERICAN RESEARCH SCIENTIST arrived in Bolivia where a typhus epidemic was raging. He had 200 grams—the total world's supply—of a new and untested drug called Chloromycetin.

There was just enough to treat 22 patients. All were seriously ill—some with signs of certain death.

A death certificate had already been made out for one typhus victim. Forty minutes after receiving Chloromycetin, he asked for a drink of water.

Within a few hours after the drug was administered, many of the 22 showed marked improvement. All recovered! Chloromycetin went into full production.

In the processing of Chloromycetin and other pharmaceuticals, corrosive conditions develop. Nickel or nickel alloys play an important part in protecting the product from contamination by metallic compounds.

Inco research and development teams in cooperation with industry have been in the forefront of the world's metallurgical developments since 1921. The knowledge and experience gained are among Inco's greatest assets. Inco research points the way to Inco's future!

"The Romance of Nickel", a 72-page book, fully illustrated, will be sent free on request. Bulk copies supplied Secondary School teachers.

Water Ambulance Tenders Sought

GANGES—The board of management of Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital here has called for tenders for water ambulance service linking all the larger Gulf Islands with Salt Spring.

Acceptance of tenders is contingent on the establishment of a hospital improvement district for the Gulf Islands, and construction of a new hospital building.

It is proposed that at least one boat be available at each of the islands to provide ambulance service whenever called upon. Tenders accepted will be guaranteed a subsidy for an initial period of 18 months, and future contracts will be taken under consideration before the end of that period. Boats having reasonable speed and able to accommodate stretcher cases are required, and tenders should be addressed to W. E. Dipple, administrator of Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital at Ganges.

Health Minister Eric G. Martin and Donald Cox, hospital insurance commissioner, on a recent visit to the hospital expressed admiration for the proposed site of a new hospital overlooking Ganges Harbor.

Nanaimo Theatre To Close Doors

NANAIMO — The Strand Theatre here will close its doors Saturday, according to an announcement by Mel Gow, local manager for Famous Players. The Capitol Theatre will still be operating and the Starlite drive-in.

Mr. Gow said it was a losing proposition to operate three theatres here. Television had hit theatre attendance, he said, and the fact that Nanaimo had some 300 community organizations and clubs also had its effect.

AFL Link Sought

CALGARY (CP) — The Calgary Herald says the Communist-dominated International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers is negotiating secretly to be absorbed by an American Federation of Labor union. The Herald says that, as a result, an all-out onslaught of AFL groups planned for this month on Mine-Mill strongholds in British Columbia has been postponed.

The Herald says it obtained this information from "leading Canadian trade unionists" but that none of its sources would allow themselves to be quoted because the feelers put out by Mine-Mill have been a tightly-guarded secret in the top ranks of North American labor.

Retailers Join In Campaign For Institution

NANAIMO — Retail Merchants' Association has agreed to write to Premier W. A. C. Bennett affirming its support of the Chamber of Commerce drive to get the proposed new 1,500-bed mental hospital built in the Nanaimo area.

Larry Wight, member of the Chamber of Commerce committee concerned, spoke to the merchants at their regular meeting Monday.

He told of advantages to be gained through locating such an institution here, and exploded the old-fashioned idea of any social stigma being attached to such hospitals.

During construction, he said, 300 men would be employed for at least a year with a monthly payroll of some $150,000, and when the hospital was occupied there was a potential payroll of some $300,000 monthly.

Atomic Station Site Selected

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's first atomic power station may be built at or near the site of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's biggest hydro-electric installation on the Ottawa River.

An informed government source says the experimental reactor, expected to produce 20,000 kilowatts of electric power, likely will be located in the vicinity of the Des Joachims plant, about 145 miles northwest of Ottawa.

The power station is on the Ontario-Quebec boundary in the Ottawa River adjacent to the small Quebec village of Des Joachims. It is 38 miles upstream from Pembroke, Ont., and some 35 miles by road from Chalk River, site of Canada's atomic energy plant.

The electricity-producing atomic reactor will be built jointly by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., which operates the Chalk River plant, Ontario Hydro and the Canadian General Electric Co. at a cost of between $13,000,000 and $15,000,000. It is not expected to generate electricity economically but its operation will provide information required for later construction of economic plants. Design of the plant now is in progress.

Wolves Keep Chance For League Laurels

LONDON (AP) — Wolverhampton Wanderers nosed out Aston Villa 1-0 Monday and cut idle Chelsea's lead in English League First Division soccer standings to five points.

Half-back Ron Flowers got the Wolves goal three minutes from the final whistle—a goal that kept the Wolves in the championship race with only three weeks to the end of the season.

After setting the pace nearly all season, Wolverhampton slumped about three weeks ago and Chelsea moved to the top of the division. Now Chelsea, with only three games to play, leads with 49 points from 39 matches. The second-place Wolves have 44 points with five matches remaining.

Monday's matches almost wound up the gruelling Easter program of three league games in four days for most teams. A few matches are scheduled for today, including a return game between Wolverhampton and Aston Villa.

Manchester City's hopes of completing the double—the league championship and the Football Association Cup—suffered a blow when West Bromwich Albion defeated the cup finalists 2-1. Manchester is fourth with 43 points from 38 games.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were irregular in dull trading.

In early trade most prices declined, reflecting hesitation on U.S. markets and reports of rain in the U.S. wheat belt. In later trade, offerings were fairly liberal in oats, barley and rye. Flax was steady, reflecting export orders and light offerings.

Some flax business was said to have developed to Holland and France also was reported inquiring for flax. U.S. houses bought barley, domestic shippers oats. A small parcel of rye was reported sold to the continent late last week.

Export wheat loadings for the week-end included: U.K. 245,000 bushels, Belgium 225,000, Japan 665,000, the Netherlands 25,000, Costa Rica 25,000, Colombia a small parcel.

Flyers Clean Up WHL Playoff Final In Four Straight

CALGARY (CP)—Edmonton Flyers, who won the Western Hockey League title in a breeze, [illegible] their playoff final against Calgary Stampeders Monday night when they downed the Cowboys, 5-2, in one of the most exciting games of the series.

Flyers, who swept past Vancouver, 4-1, in the semi-finals, now meet the winners of the Montreal - Shawinigan Falls Quebec Hockey League final in a best-of-seven series for the Duke of Edinburgh Trophy. Roger Leger's Shawinigan Falls squad dropped the opening game of a best-of-seven final to Montreal, 4-3, Sunday.

It was a sweet victory for Flyers, who lost to Stampeders in last year's final. Calgary then went on to win the first competition for the Duke of Edinburgh Trophy.

Stampeders, who finished in fourth place in the regular schedule, 19 points behind the first-place Flyers, made a game battle of it in their effort to gain at least one victory in the series.

They fell behind 1-0 in the first period and were trailing 2-0 midway in the second period before coming to life with two goals in 58 seconds to move on even terms with the strong Edmonton squad. The Flyers forged ahead again with a goal late in the session.

Edmonton goalie Glen Hall was brilliant in the early going of the final period and then the Flyers took over and drew away to win.

Rookie Normie Ullman and Bronco Horvath led the Flyers with two goals each and rookie Jerry Melnyk notched the other. Doc Couture and Ray Barry scored for Stampeders.

Kelly Tests Montreal Goalie

Starry Detroit defenseman Red Kelly gets set to pick up this rolling puck and blast a shot at Montreal goalie Jacques Plante in one of the many tense moments that the Canadiens' netminder has had in current Stanley Cup final against the Red Wings. Plante stopped the shot but the Red Wings have shown plenty of scoring punch in taking a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series, which resumes tonight at Montreal.

Senators, Cubs Win Major League Openers

Major league baseball opened its 1955 season yesterday with two games and when results were in, Washington Senators and Chicago Cubs, two teams not likely to be anywhere near the top when the season ends, were leading the American and National Leagues, respectively.

At Washington where President Eisenhower threw out the first ball and munched peanuts and cheered avidly as he stayed to the last out, the Senators clobbered Baltimore Orioles, 12-5.

Meanwhile, the Redlegs disappointed an opening-day sell-out of 32,195 by taking a 7-5 beating from the Cubs.

MORE ACTION TODAY

Those were preliminary openers. Today, all 16 teams swing into action with both leagues forecasting interesting pennant races.

In the National League, the world-champion New York Giants will send Johnny Antonelli, 21-7 last season, to the mound at Philadelphia. The Phillies will lead with their ace, Robin Roberts, 23-15 last season and hoping for a sixth successive 20-game season.

Brooklyn Dodgers, planning to regain the championship lost to the Giants, will start Carl Erskine at Pittsburgh against the Pirates' Max Surkont. At Milwaukee, the Braves will use southpaw Warren Spahn against Cincinnati's Gerry Staley.

In the other National League opener, the Cubs will start Paul Minner against Brooks Lawrence of the St. Louis Cardinals in a game at Chicago.

TRIBE MEETS SOX

Over in the American League, the champion Cleveland Indians will open at home with Chicago White Sox providing the opposition. Manager Al Lopez, who yesterday signed a contract to manage the Indians through 1956, will lead with Bob Lemon, 23-7 last season. Lemon's opponent will be Virgil Trucks, 19-12 last season.

New York Yankees, who missed winning a sixth straight championship last season, although they won 103 games, will open at home with southpaw Whitey Ford, 16-8 last season, pitching against Washington's Mickey McDermott.

Boston Red Sox will open at Baltimore and Detroit Tigers will provide the opposition for the Athletics as Kansas City makes its American League debut. Thousands of fans lined Kansas City streets yesterday as the Athletics were paraded through town.

About 155,000 fans are expected to turn out for the American League games with the National League expecting about 115,000 for its games.

DEBUT SUCCESS

Yesterday, the Senators, who led all major league teams in spring training games, made Chuck Dressen's American League debut a successful one by bunching their 10 hits. Jim Busby, with a double and two singles, and Tom Umphlett, with a double and single, did most of the damage.

Gene Baker and Harry Chiti, rookie catcher who also hit a run-scoring double, both hit home runs for the Cubs. Ted Kluszewski, major league home run and runs-batted-in leader last season, hit one out of the park for the Reds.

Scenes like this were common yesterday as the 1955 major league baseball season got under way on two fronts. Here, Washington first baseman Mickey Vernon, with support from an unidentified teammate, lets loose a verbal barrage at the umpire, who remains adamant. Senators got away to a good start by blasting Baltimore Orioles, 12-5, at Washington where President Eisenhower tossed up the first ball.

Papers Pick Up Cry Of Olympic Delays

MELBOURNE — Melbourne newspapers today gave wide play to Avery Brundage's blast at Melbourne's lagging Olympic construction and a leading columnist called for the resignation of the head man of the city's Olympic Games committee.

In a front page story in the Melbourne Argus, columnist Ken Moses charged that Wilfred Selwyn Kent-Hughes, chairman of the Olympic Games organizing committee, had "snubbed" the president of the International Olympic Committee and "must resign—not tomorrow, but today."

MIGHT LOSE GAMES

In his farewell press conference in Melbourne Monday following a six-day inspection tour of Olympic sites in the city, Brundage declared he was "not happy" over the progress made and warned Australians they are still in danger of losing the prize plum of world sport.

This set off the bombshells in the papers this morning.

"I am not satisfied with the progress being made," Brundage said at a final press conference after inspection Melbourne's preparations. "Too much still is in the planning stage after five years since Australia was given the games.

"The games represent a big business enterprise and should be handled by Australia's biggest business men. Other big cities still are ready to spend $20,000,000 to hold the games, even at this stage."

ASSURANCES GIVEN

Governor Dalls Brooks and Premier John Cain have assured Brundage the games will be handled satisfactorily.

"I only hope so," Brundage said. "Ever since the games have been awarded to Melbourne, there has been nothing but bickering and squabbling. There have been plenty of changes in authority but little action."

Brundage, who is scheduled to see Prime Minister Robert Menzies today, admitted he hadn't seen the organizing committee for the games since he arrived in Australia.

"I thought they would have liked to meet me," Brundage said.

Brundage's statements represented a sharp change in his opinion. After inspecting several of Melbourne's Olympic sites last Wednesday, he said, "I see nothing to warrant serious criticism . . . there are still 18 months to go and still plenty of time to make the Olympiad one of the best of this century."

Maxim, Olson Fighting Advance Battle of Words

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — One of the great boxing exhibitions of all time will flash across the nation's television screens on Wednesday—if one can believe Carl (Bobo) Olson and Joey Maxim.

The middleweight champion and the former world light-heavyweight titleholder clash in a 10-round non-title bout in the Cow Palace that night, both confident of victory.

"I'm the better boxer and I expect to jab Olson silly," says Maxim.

"I believe I'm a better boxer than Maxim," says Olson, "but that doesn't mean I won't try for a knock-out."

About 10,000 fans are expected to flock to the Cow Palace to see which man is better and they'll pay something more than $100,000 for the privilege. Television will be blacked out for some 150 miles around the San Francisco Bay area.

Maxim has agreed to come into the ring weighing no more than 175 pounds. If he fails to make that weight he will forfeit $10,000.

Olson is expected to weigh around 168 pounds — reputedly his best "hitting weight," but at least eight pounds more than he weighs when defending his crown.

Kerr and Merriman Island Open Favorites

BY HARRY YOUNG

Laurie Kerr of Colwood and Johnnie Merriman of Gorge Vale have established themselves as favorites to reach the final of the Vancouver Island Open.

The field was reduced to eight at Gorge Vale on Sunday, and it was Kerr and Merriman who probably played the most impressive golf. Kerr is in the top half of the draw and Merriman in the bottom. Kerr has a tough opponent in Hugh Morrison in the quarter-finals at Uplands on Sunday while Merriman meets the veteran Harold Lineham.

WHAN RECOVERS

Outstanding among the latter was that of the Duncan player, Gordon Whan, who opened 5, 3, 5, 5 and found himself four down to George Andrews, the Colwood champion. But Whan, generally outdriving his opponent, took seven of the next 10 holes to win by 3 and 2. Around in approximately 74, Whan must be regarded as one of the dark horses of the competition.

Whan is up next against the Colwood professional. Bill Court, who won his way into the third round after a closely-fought battle with Joe Pryke, his opposite number at Gorge Vale.

SOME LUCK

Court made fewer mistakes than his opponent, although Joe missed a couple of shortish putts, including one on the last green that might have taken the match beyond the 18th. Pryke, however, was lucky on more than one occasion, notably when he won the 12th after a tree deflected his tee shot from going out of bounds into the cemetery. A deliberately sliced spoon shot round the timber followed this escape and Court, trapped with his second, lost a hole that he looked like winning. It cut his lead to one hole, and that margin remained to the end as the last six holes were halved.

RALLIES TO WIN

Another notable performance was the victory of Hugh Morrison, who trailed most of the way against Freddie Clunk but eventually won at the 19th. Morrison had putting trouble and was three down at the 10th.

Lineham has been playing such excellent golf recently that his victory over Frank Scroggs, while notable, was hardly unexpected. The Uplands man was four down at the 12th, and eventually lost, 3 and 2.

Bob Herbertson, playing on his own course, was too accurate for Laurie Carroll, the Victoria assistant pro, and his 5 and 3 victory was next only to Johnnie Merriman's 6 and 5 win over Si Spaven.

Bill McColl showed signs of running back into his best form when he piled up a lead of three holes with four to go against Bob Woods, but he had to scramble home with a one-hole winning margin.

Third-round matches are Court vs. Whan; Morrison vs. Kerr; Merriman vs. Lineham; Herbertson vs. McColl.

Charles Does Quick Job On Weary Old Substitute

EDMONTON (CP) — Vern Escoe of Toronto, a valiant but tired old warrior bleeding badly from a cut above his right eye, was knocked out at 2.15 of the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder Monday night by Ezzard Charles, former heavyweight champion of the world.

Charles started the third round with a flurry of punches, a hard left opening an old cut over Escoe's eye. It was the beginning of the end for the former heavyweight titleholder of Canada.

A hard right staggered him and another right to the head eye followed. Escoe took a right uppercut but managed to land a pair of stingless lefts to Charles' head before a flurry of body punches and a hard right to the face sent him down for the count.

A crowd of 3,056 paid $13,086 to see the fight. A boxing commission official estimated that between 3,000 and 4,000 tickets were turned in for refunds after Arthur was forced to withdraw.

Little League Adds To Registration Time

Esquimalt Little League officials announced last night that registration sessions for Victoria and district's newest four-team Little League have been extended to Saturday at Bullen Park from 10 to 4 p.m.

Registration periods for all youngsters eight to 12 years of age will be held at Bullen Park tonight, Wednesday night and Friday night from 6 to 7.30 in addition to Saturday's day-long session. Officials estimate that almost 100 youngsters have signed up so far.

However, most of the youngsters who have registered are residents of Esquimalt and officials reminded prospective Little Leaguers last night that residents of Victoria West are eligible. The boundary takes in all of Esquimalt and Victoria West to the Inner Harbor and is cut off to the north by a line running from Thetis Cove to Portage Inlet.

Registration will continue for both the National and American Leagues at Little League Park tonight and Wednesday night from 6 to 7.30.

Meanwhile, registration and workout sessions for Babe Ruth League baseball will continue tonight and Thursday night at Beacon Hill Park from 6 to 7.30.

Practice and registration schedule for next two weeks:

Tonight—6 to 7.30, Beacon Hill Park.
Thursday—6 to 7.30, Beacon Hill Park.
Sunday—9.30 a.m., Beacon Hill Park.
April 19—6 to 7.30, Beacon Hill Park.

St. Andrews Meets City On Saturday

Victoria City, idle from Coast Soccer League action for three weeks, will be shooting for a share of second place with New Westminster Royals when it hosts St. Andrews in a league match at Royal Athletic Park at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The Victoria club defeated Vancouver City in its opening second-half match but lost to the Royals, who have won two of three starts and are one point behind undefeated North Shore.

It will be the final appearance of the crowd-pleasing Scots here this season. St. Andrews, led by centre-forward Dave Swan, the league's top scorer, and centre-half Dave Guthrie, tied 3-3 with North Shore in their only second-half start.

Stars From East Bolster Shamrocks

Victoria Shamrocks, defending Inter-City Lacrosse League champions and Mann Cup finalists for the past two seasons, indicated strongly yesterday that they aren't intending to give up their laurels without a struggle.

Standing by while Nanaimo's ambitious Native Sons announced the signing of seven standout players who will form the nucleus of what appears to be a strong contender, the Shamrocks finally broke into print with the announcement that goalkeeper Geordie Johnston and league-scoring champion Jack Bionda would be back this season.

Yesterday, they announced the signing of two more eastern Canada stars who, from past records, should have no trouble in establishing themselves in the ICLL. The newcomers are Bob Dobbie and Pee Wee Bradshaw, with St. Catherines and Hamilton, respectively, last season.

YOUNG, GOOD

Both have fine records and both are young—the type of player sought by the Shamrocks, who hope both will become permanent Victoria citizens and continue to play for them for seasons to come.

Dobbie, 22 years of age and 185 pounds, wound up seventh in the individual scoring race in the Ontario Lacrosse Association last season. He's from Fergus and his fine play helped the Hamilton club to finish a strong third in the OLA last season.

Bradshaw is not exactly a stranger to the Shamrocks. He played against them in last year's Mann Cup final, having been picked up as a replacement by the Peterborough Trailermen, who bested the Rocks, 4-1, in the best-of-seven series.

Shamrock coach Red McMillan was elated at the acquisition of the two young stars. He rates Bradshaw "a real good player who can score as well as make plays from first-hand observation, and is intrigued with reports about Dobbie which state that he is a real comer who has yet to reach his peak.

DUE WITHIN WEEK

Both players are expected to arrive within a week and will join the Shamrocks at workouts immediately.

Bionda and Johnston will both be here before the start of league play and there is hope that defenseman Nip O'Hearn will also be back for a second season. And there is still a possibility that the Rocks will add another player before the start of the season.

"We might have more news in a few days," McMillan said last night, indicating that negotiations are still in progress with at least one more player.

Eilers Sweep Series For Canadian Crown

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Eilers won the Canadian senior "A" women's basketball championship and the Underwood Trophy for the sixth straight year Monday night by downing Saskatoon Aces, 49-43, before a scant 100 spectators.

Eilers, who won the first two games by 50-36 and 50-44 scores, swept the best-of-five series in straight games.

Play was tied on every advance in score to 12-12 before Zoe Robinson of Eilers broke the spell with a free shot near the end of the quarter. She connected with another seconds before the buzzer sounded to give the Eilers a 14-12 lead.

The score bounced back and forth as each team rang up 15 points, giving Eilers a 29-27 lead going into the third quarter.

The hometowners edged Aces in scoring 10-8 in the third quarter, increasing their lead to 39-35.

It was the same story in the last frame, with Eilers outpointing the visitors 10-8.

Lineups:

Saskatoon—Williams 20, Hooper 2, Ravcroft 0, Slowchuk 11, MacKay 4, Lawson 5, Prior 11, Donaldson 4, Campbell 2. Total—49.

Eric Wilkinson won the low net trophy in the fourth annual B.C. government employees' golf tournament at Gorge Vale Golf Club yesterday when he fired a 93-30—63.

Bruce McLean was runner-up with an 83-17—66 and defending champion Keith Taylor was well back among the 52 starters with a net 73.

Jack Storrie and H. I. Johnston, both of Gorge Vale, shared low gross honors with 80s.

Slow Start

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters) — Heavy rain and bad light restricted play Monday to less than an hour and a half. West Indies scoring 73 for two wickets, on the first day of the second cricket Test Match against Australia.

West Indies, beaten by nine wickets in the first match, did not hesitate in choosing to bat on a perfect pitch when it won the toss. But only 20 runs had been scored in 22 minutes when rain stopped play. It continued until after lunch and the delay lasted more than four hours.

Canadiens Get Help For Do-or-Die Sixth

MONTREAL—Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings returned to Montreal Monday night with coach Dick Irvin of the Montrealers promising there will be "two changes" for the sixth game of the Stanley Cup series tonight.

Irvin would only say he expects to have Dick Gamble, from Buffalo of the American Hockey League, in the line-up. With his team trailing 3-2 in games in the best-of-seven series, Irvin figures any addition, in the form of an able-bodied player, will help.

He wouldn't be drawn out on the other change he plans except that it would concern a defence position.

Red Wings, confident that they can wrap up the series tonight without going back to Detroit for a seventh game, took the series lead Sunday night with a convincing 5-1 victory featuring the three-goal record-breaking performance of Gordie Howe.

Th big winger set a playoff record, his three goals running his total points in the playoffs to 19. This bettered the old mark of 18 made by Toe Blake of Montreal in nine games of the 1943-44 playoffs.

Howe and his linemates, Earl Reibel and Ted Lindsay, ran their point total to 49, one more than the record of 48 made in 1943-44 when Blake combined with Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard in the playoffs against Toronto and Chicago Black Hawks.

A goal by Jean Beliveau midway through the first period put Canadiens into the lead, but Montreal slowly faded under the steady Detroit pressure and was a fagged-out team at the end, with seldom-used substitutes taking over to give respite to the regulars.

Red Kelly, Detroit's stellar defenseman, established a personal record when he received his first misconduct penalty in eight National Hockey League seasons. Kelly tangled with Butch Bouchard, Montreal's bashing defenseman, in the third period and both battlers were given minor penalties for slashing, majors for fighting and had misconducts added.

All Detroit hands came through Sunday's game in good shape except goalie Terry Sawchuk, who is suffering from a touch of the flu. Although he is expected to be fit tonight, Sawchuk remained in bed throughout the train trip of nearly 16 hours on the club doctor's orders.

SUMMARY

First Period—1, Montreal, Beliveau (Harvey, Moore), 8.01; 2, Detroit, Skov, 13.53; 3, Detroit, Howe 18.49. Penalties: Bouchard 4.33, Primeau 8.37, Howe 8.54, St. Laurent 16.55.

Second Period—4, Detroit, Howe (Delvecchio, Lindsay), (2.29); 5, Howe (Lindsay, Kelly), 14.20. Penalties: Wolt 3.04, MacKay 11.41, Bonin 14.42.

Third Period—6, Detroit, Wasiuk (Delvecchio, Bonin), 2.09. Penalties: Wolt 7.31, Reibel 10.28, Bouchard (minor, major and misconduct), 12.17, Kelly (minor, major and misconduct), 12.17, Pavelich, 19.26.

Shots: Plante, 10, 18, 11—31; Sawchuk, 7, 8, 9—19.

CARY MIDDLECOFF

Stock Heads Umpire Group

Veteran sports official Ernie Stock was elected president of the Vancouver Island Umpires' Association when the association held its annual meeting last week.

Gordie Perkins was named as vice-president and Pat Tyrrell was chosen as secretary-treasurer.

The association will hold a meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Elks Home, Cormorant Street. All persons interested in umpiring during the coming season are invited to attend.

Middlecoff Wins First Masters Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Cary Middlecoff won his first Masters Golf Tournament Sunday by shooting a final round of 70 for a 72-hole total of 279.

The tall Tennessean needed only to nurse a four-stroke lead through the final round to end the four-year Masters monopoly of Sam Snead and Ben Hogan. Instead, he played an aggressive round of 34-36—70.

Middlecoff shot rounds of 72, 65, 72 and 70 over the 6,925-yard par 36-36—72 Augusta National course.

He took command of the tournament with a near-record 65 the second day and played almost faultless golf to stay in front the rest of the way.

He finished with a seven-stroke margin over Hogan, who had a final round of 73 for a 286 total.

Of the distant challengers, only three-time champion Sam Snead improved his position. Snead, who won his third Masters by beating Hogan in last year's playoff, came in with 36-34—70 Sunday to finish with 287.

Jackie Burke, who had been the first-day leader and the third-place man Saturday, shot himself right out of the picture with a nine on the tough 13th hole. Newcomers Bobby Rosburg and Mike Souchak had 73 and 72, respectively, to tie at 289.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, after his excellent 68 Saturday, took 74 for the final round to finish at 292. Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., ended with two 76s for 308.

Leonard finished in an eight-place tie with Harvey Ward, the San Francisco amateur.

As the presiding committee, Clifford Roberts, the tournament chairman, said that the prize money had been increased from $10,000 — the nominal figure for the Masters each year—by giving a 150 per cent bonus to each player. That brings the total to approximately $35,000, with Middlecoff taking down $5,000 and every pro who finished at least $250.

Leading money winners in the 19th Masters tournament:

Cary Middlecoff, $5,000 (72-65-72-70—279).

Sam Snead, $2,125 (72-71-74-70—287).

Lloyd Mangrum, $875 (74-73-72-72—291).

*Harvie Ward (77-69-75-71—292).

* Denotes amateur.

Remember When:

Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings was suspended by Frank Calder, then president of the NHL, and Detroit players Eddie Wares and Don Grosse were fined $100 each, 13 years ago tonight following a fistic assault on referee Mel Harwood in the fourth game of the Detroit-Toronto Stanley Cup series. That was the series won by Toronto with four straight victories after dropping the first three games.

City's Lead Stands Up For Win Over Dockers

Victoria City held off a late rally by Esquimalt of the Victoria and District League's first division to edge the Dockers, 4-3, and advance to the final of the Province Cup soccer competition Sunday at Heywood Avenue Park.

The Coast League club now meets the winner of the other semi-final match between Heaneys and Victoria West. Winner of the city final will tangle with the up-Island champion and the Island champion will advance to the semi-finals along with three Mainland teams in the final stage of the annual competition.

EAGLES WIN

In minor league action Sunday, Eagles of Division I, making a strong bid for entry into the district league next season, scored its second victory in three games against district clubs by whipping Punjab United, 3-1.

Eagles, Island Division 1 champions, added the second-half league championship to their first-half title Sunday when Mic Macs defaulted in a scheduled league match.

Victoria City held a 2-0 lead at halftime and ran up a 4-1 lead midway through the second half before Esquimalt took advantage of a weakening City defense to bang in two late goals.

TWO APIECE

Ken Hibbert got both first-half goals, scoring at 10 and 30 minutes on plays with Ced Robb and Ab Travis. Robb made it 3-0 early in the second half and got City's final goal after Denny Shubrooke had beaten goalie Pete Winters for Esquimalt's first goal.

A lob from just inside the centre line by Glen Underwood bounced over Winters' head and into the net for Esquimalt's second marker and Ken Barnes banged in the third goal when Winters bobbled a shot.

Pistons Find Hoops Hexed At Syracuse

SYRACUSE (AP)—One of the oddest hexes in the sports world is still alive today and because it is, the Syracuse Nationals reign as kings of the National Basketball Association.

This refers to the weird mastery the Nationals hold on their home floor over the Fort Wayne Pistons. In six years and 23 games—ever since they entered the league — the Pistons have been unable to win at Syracuse.

Sunday, the Nats perpetuated the hex in the seventh and deciding game of the NBA playoffs, beating the Pistons 92-91 for their first league title.

The drivers were identified as Quincy McCann, 210 Government, and James Henderson, 360 Moss whose car was overturned. Car damage was heavy.

Curbside Discovery Exploded

Famed Trombonist Shatters Myth

MANCHESTER, England (NANA) —A star trombone player, preparing to quit her orchestra, today blew up one of European musicians' favorite success stories—that she was discovered while playing in a Salvation Army band.

For 10 years, the musicians have accepted without question the account that Mrs. Maisie Ringham, who plays with the world-famous Halle Orchestra, attracted conductor Sir John Barbirolli's attention during a curbside concert. Mrs. Ringham was understood to have been signed to a contract immediately.

Thirty-year-old Mrs. Ringham, announcing she would leave the orchestra to move to London, said she had decided to shatter the myth.

"It isn't true and I've been unhappy about it," said the only woman trombonist with a top symphony orchestra. "I got my job with the Halle in the usual way. By taking an audition."

Fugitive On List Of FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI Monday added to its list of 10 most wanted fugitives the name of Daniel William O'Connor, already listed by the RCMP as one of their most wanted men.

The FBI said O'Connor, a native of Detroit and now only 26 years old, has been engaging in the fraudulent cheque racket since a 1946 desertion from the United States army.

Austrian Chancellor In Moscow for Talks

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Austrian Chancelor Julius Raab flew into a military airport near freezing Moscow Monday to try to clear the way for freeing his country from 10 years of four-power occupation.

Three of Russia's top leaders stood in snowflurries nearly half an hour to welcome him. After Roob descended from the Soviet airliner he reviewed an honor guard which paraded by with drawn swords.

"We are determined to establish closer relations between the Soviet Union and my country, and to make us both serve the cause of peace."

He is expected to spend three days here for talks which can only be exploratory in nature, since the other three powers occupying Austria—Britain, the United States and France—must approve any blueprint for a peace treaty.

The Austrian embassy said the talks probably will begin Tuesday.

The chancellor's 10-man delegation was greeted by a brass band which played the Soviet and Austrian national anthems. On the chilly tarmac were Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov, Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan and western diplomats.

The first Soviet comment after Raab's arrival was in the newspaper Evening Moscow, which charged the three Western powers had tried to "exert pressure" on Austria on the treaty question.

Kidnapper Forces Man To Open Safe

VANCOUVER (CP)—A bandit kidnapped a drive-in cinema owner and his mother early Monday, drove them to the theatre, and at gunpoint forced them to open a safe and hand over nearly $1,500.

William Steel, 35, and his mother, Mrs. Ada I. Steel, were taken by surprise when the gunman intercepted them as they arrived at their suburban Burnaby home after a midnight show.

Mr. Steel attacked the bandit with an iron but he was stunned by a blow over the head with a revolver.

The man then tied their hands with wire and drove to the cinema.

The gunman drove off in the Steel's car, which was later recovered in the east end district of Vancouver.

Mr. Steel managed to free himself and call police.

"I saw him standing in the dark when I walked into the kitchen," Mr. Steel told RCMP in Burnaby.

"The man didn't say anything but I knew what he was up to. The ironing board was nearby so I just grabbed the iron and threw it at him. It landed a little too low. And then he slugged me with the revolver."

Saving their traveling time until summer vacations, many Victorians stayed in town during the Easter holiday week-end, a survey of transportation companies disclosed yesterday.

Officials of Trans Canada Air Lines said number of passengers leaving Victoria from Thursday to Monday was 2,500, about the same as last year."

Spokesmen for the CPR said traffic on steamships was "very, very, good." All ships were full but business was concentrated on the Victoria-Vancouver run which had two extra round trips Friday and yesterday.

Private forces in Greater Victoria said number of cars on highways was little better [illegible] week-end traffic.

Deadline Wednesday

Deadline for registration of all soldiers who have served in the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry will be 5 p.m. Wednesday, George Harrison, president of the PPCLI Association, said yesterday.

At that time Mr. Harrison will collect all the signed slips from the secretary's office at Britannia branch of the Canadian Legion to send east. Experts should not send their own slips, he said.

Five signatures are wanted so that they can be included on a scroll to be presented to Brig. A. Hamilton Gault, the first commanding officer at the 50th anniversary reunion May 6 to 8.

Mrs. V. Godfrey, 839 Bay, reported to police yesterday the theft from her home of a $35 set of silverware and a mantle radio.

Buyers Queue Up

Fred Blakeney, league president, said the sale at 774 Pandora, where premises were donated by Victoria Super Service Company, raised some $1,[illegible] which will go to the general fund of the league.

Mrs. Beatrice Bakewell, wife of the league president, was convener.

Sale was so successful officials said, that others will be held every three months. Many items donated by residents of Greater Victoria were not picked up because it was utterly impossible to contact them all, Mr. Blake explained.

He's Their Hero

Waves Swamp Small Boat

Fisherman Rescues Brothers After Punt Capsizes in Squall

A 43-year-old Victorian who lost two brothers-in-law in a boating accident eight years ago rescued two young brothers from drowning in a squall on Saanich Inlet Sunday.

Vic Holman, 328 Catherine, a janitor at HMCS Naden, saved Phillip Little, 11, and his brother Alexander, 8, of 1514 Burnside after another sports fisherman [illegible] and [illegible] to hear their cries and [illegible] by.

The brothers had launched their 10-bottomed boat from Mill Bay and were under strict orders from their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Little, to fish only in that area. But they headed into the inlet where their 16-foot punt was swamped and capsized by waves three feet high.

Mr. Holman had just started fishing from McCurdy Point when he saw the punt, which "appeared to be sitting awfully low.

"I didn't like the looks of it so I [illegible] and then I saw there were two heads in it," he said. "I noticed two [illegible] were paddling.

"Another boat was two yards from them," Mr. Holman said. "The boys yelled and waved but either the people in the boat didn't see them or didn't bother about them . . . It made me mad."

Then the boat capsized. Mr. Holman saw the older boy hold on to the younger one who was in a life jacket.

He started to [illegible] alone in his boat. Then a [illegible] older boy, telling the two not to get nervous.

"They were very calm even though it was terribly cold," he said. He lifted Alexander in first and then Phillip.

Mr. Holman and the older boy salvaged the punt and some equipment but the boys lost a fishing rod.

Told [illegible] he was lucky he didn't lose his life never mind his fishing rod, the rescuer said, "In another minute they might have drowned or drifted away from my boat."

"If it wasn't for him I wouldn't have my boys," grateful Mrs. Little said when she met the rescuer yesterday.

Crombie Concerned

'Copters Denied Protected Base

Concern that Vancouver Island Helicopters Ltd. has not been granted a protected base here was expressed yesterday by Hector Crombie, managing secretary of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

The $[illegible],000 company was granted a commercial licence last week by the air [illegible] board to operate on a charter basis from Patricia Bay Airport but was not granted the protected base it had requested.

"It is unfortunate that a new company starting up could not be granted protection. You would think they would give it at least three years to get established," Mr. Crombie said.

COMPETITION FEARED

He said that if the helicopter business here proves lucrative, an established firm could move in, cut prices and put the new company out of business.

During public hearings in Victoria, Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. opposed the application for a protected base but did not oppose the granting of a charter to Vancouver Island Helicopters.

"It is a very unfair sign of competition," Mr. Crombie said. "If they are going to insist on no other protected bases they should have Vancouver thrown open to competition."

Ted Henson of Vancouver Island Helicopters said yesterday that a [illegible] operations from Patricia Bay [illegible] he would [illegible] and patrol work.

He expected to use another [illegible] helicopter within two months.

"Actually we were hoping to get a protected base but we weren't depending on it," he said. He indicated another application for a protected base would be made later.

Paralyzed Youngsters Back Strait Challenger

Two crippled city children you swim all the way. All the [illegible] yesterday captured the heart of [illegible] swimmer Bert Thomas. [illegible] love you and wish you luck.

The swimmer received letters from six-year-old Jimmie Francis, a paralysis victim in the Sunshine ward at St. Joseph's, for the past four years, and 12-year-old Mary Jean Trot, [illegible] who is paralyzed from the waist down.

Jimmie [illegible] paralyzed down his right side. He can't [illegible].

SCRAWLED MESSAGE

But up [illegible] a typical [illegible] of small children he printed out his message of best wishes to the swimmer who will [illegible] attempt to cross Juan de Fuca Strait Wednesday.

"I love you for swimming so we can get well," his message read in part. "Anne (the nurse) said I can hear you talk on the radio address but Mr. Thomas I [illegible] if I am good Mr. Thomas I [illegible] am going to be seven next May [illegible] and hope to be able to walk and [illegible] like Jimmie Dose [illegible] be in next bed to me. [illegible] so hope that he sing [illegible] he said.

Mary Jean did not give her address but Mr. Thomas last night said he hoped she would phone him at the Cherry Bank Hotel today.

"However you miss with kids like that be sing [illegible] he said.

Thomas Kicks Off at 9 p.m. Wednesday In Straits Attempt if Weather Permits

If the weatherman says "Go" Bert Thomas ex-frogman from Tacoma will match his strength at 9 p.m. Wednesday with the tide tricks and bitter cold of Juan de Fuca Strait in an attempt to swim from Victoria to Pillar Rock near Port Angeles.

Weatherman William Mackie forecast last night that West winds would be a day of decreasing winds. Gale force winds are expected to strike the strait today.

"If we can only get that break in the weather . . . that's the only problem now," commented Capt. Hugh Evans, the swimmer's navigator.

Thomas will leave from Horseshoe Bay near Clover Point, only a few yards up the beach from where Florence Chadwick began her ill-fated attempt last fall.

First leg of 4½ miles will be in a south-southeasterly direction on the flood tide. He will then turn to a south-southwesterly course that will take him eight miles on the ebb tide. Final 6½ miles should land the swimmer at the beacon on Pillar Rock.

Time of the start has been put off one hour to 9 p.m.

"Bert must finish the first leg by 11 p.m.," said Captain Evans. "If he starts at eight he will finish the leg too soon. He has proved much faster than we first thought."

If weather conditions are bad the swim will be postponed until 10 p.m. Thursday. The next favorable tides won't come until the second week in May.

"Wednesday night is the one I'm just hoping for," said Captain Evans.

Maury Hume, the swimmer's trainer, arrived here from Tacoma yesterday morning. "He looks pretty happy doesn't he?" he said admiringly.

It's Mr. Hume's opinion that 11 hours is the maximum time a swimmer could survive in the strait.

Thomas hopes to complete the journey in 10 hours.

Last night he covered two miles from Ogden Point to Clover Point in 40 minutes. It was his last serious training swim before the attempt Wednesday although he will probably limber up his muscles in a short dip today.

Messages of good luck flooded the Cherry Bank Hotel yesterday from friends and complete strangers.

A large fleet of tugs and boats will accompany Thomas across the strait. In the coaching boat alongside the swimmer will be Mr. Hume, Dave Evans, boatman, and Mrs. Mary Thomas.

Angus Marine has lent a 5½-horsepower outboard motor for the coaching boat.

Thomas will enter the water weighing 250 pounds. He has lost 25 pounds during his training.

Meanwhile, his 11-year-old daughter Sharon Lee spends all her time at the Victoria Riding Club where owner Don Caries has placed a horse at her disposal for as long as she is in Victoria. Sharon loves horses.

Immediately after the swim Thomas will return to Victoria and will spend the next 30 days at the Cherry Bank Hotel.

Aid to Cultural Groups Hangs on Single Vote

Ald. Austin Curtis appeared yesterday to be in a position to grant or deny city aid to the Arts Centre and the Victoria Symphony Orchestra with his single vote.

But, he said, he will not make up his mind one way or the other until he has heard both sides of the case.

A Parent-Teacher Association delegation which petitioned city council's finance committee last week for aid to the Arts Centre and symphony society will return next week to present its arguments to council Thursday.

In finance committee it was learned Ald. W. F. Penfold and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow spoke in favor of the city making grants to the two cultural organizations. Ald. Brent Murdoch expressed himself as unalterably opposed and Ald. Robert Macmillan said he was opposed under present circumstances.

Non-members of the finance committee also were split in their opinions. Ald. Arthur Dowell said yesterday he was in favor of giving civic aid to the organizations last year, and saw no reason to change his opinion. Ald. J. D. Smith said he also was in favor of civic grants.

Ald. M. H. Mooney expressed some opposition however, and suggested a plebiscite on the question at the next elections.

If Alderman Curtis votes in favor of grants therefore, and the other aldermen retain their present views, the vote will be 5-3 for the grants.

TIE MEANS NO

If Alderman Curtis swings the other way, the vote will be 4-4 and an equal vote is considered a vote in the negative.

Mrs. T. R. Kelly, member of the Victoria council of the Parent-Teacher Association, headed the delegation to the finance committee.

Mrs. Kelly said after the meeting the committee had seemed sympathetic to portions of a 25-page brief dealing with the cultural effect of the orchestra and Arts Centre on [illegible] children of the district.

The Arts Centre has received no grants from the city since 1951, and last year had to scrape up $2,000 to pay back taxes to the city. The orchestra recently announced it is in urgent need of financial support.

NEEDS $3,000

The orchestra has received $2,100 since it announced its plight but needs at least another $3,000, J. F. K. Englesh president of the society said yesterday.

"We are not going to fold up under any circumstances," he added, "but it has been our practice to clear off our debts at the end of every season."

Last year the city was governed by a section of the Municipal Act which permitted it to make grants only to charitable organizations, but this year the act was amended to allow grants to cultural groups.

Digging Almost Finished

Although hundreds of junior schoolwalk superintendents will be absent on Easter vacation work men are expected to complete this week the excavation for a $420,419 addition to Victoria High School.

The students will be present however when footings are laid and the structure begins to rise and will be back from summer vacation before the two-story addition stands complete.

Luney Brothers & Hamilton Ltd. the contractors are working to a deadline of November 30 but expect the work will be finished four to six weeks ahead of time.

SECOND GYM

The addition, in the same structural style as the main body of the high school, will include a second gymnasium adjoining the present one, several new classrooms above the new gymnasium and a new boys' shower room. The addition will also require alterations in the home economics section and the boiler room.

At the peak of construction activity 60 men will be employed on the project according to W. J. Hamilton, managing director of the contracting company.

Escaped Boys Caught in City

Two youths who escaped from Brannan Lake Boy's Industrial School early yesterday morning were apprehended in Victoria last night and turned over to the R.C.M.P. city police reported.

Vandals Damage House

Workmen at a partly constructed house on Leigh Road, Langford, showed up at work yesterday morning and found someone had built a bonfire on the wooden floor of a utility room over the Easter week-end.

"It could have been more serious," he commented. He suspects juveniles.

Last week destructive youngsters carved their initials on new plaster in the same house and scratched the plaster in every room. Parents concerned were warned.

Tumbled into Open Well

Grandmother Finds Drowning Child

Two-year-old Marilyn Williams might not have died last week at the Cole Bay Indian Reserve in North Saanich if a shallow well had been completely covered an officer of the RCMP said last night.

At an inquest Friday Dr. F. C. Hart, coroner, ruled that the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don and Williams died accidentally by drowning.

The RCMP officer said the child apparently had fallen into the pool, about four feet deep where it was left uncovered at one end.

The child was discovered in the water by her grandmother, who went to the pool to do some washing.

The grandmother called Mrs. Williams, who ran to the road with Marilyn in her arms and stopped a passing motorist. The driver took them to Rest Haven Hospital, where the child was pronounced dead.

Funeral service was held Friday from Our Lady of Sorrows Church, and burial was in East Saanich Cemetery.

Marilyn is survived by three brothers and three sisters as well as her parents.

Beauty and You

By MARION MATTHEWS

This is the season for freckles to reappear and they turn up with no encouragement from you. There's more than one way to control them however and Max Factor Jr. the make-up expert, says they need not rob you of glamour.

Protect your skin from the sun and wind if you freckle by using sun glasses and wearing a foundation make-up. Pretty jaunty clothes are some whenever outdoors. Such use of the freckles show through make-up will screen the sun's rays and discourage freckles. Be sure to apply your foundation then evenly and generously. If you miss a spot freckles will form there. For best results choose cosmetics designed to carry a complete coverage. Use pressed powder creme type complexion cosmetics.

For indoor days Factor suggests Mr. Factor says it's long to hide freckles entirely. If you do you'll end up looking made up for daytime and the effect will be to lose your natural charm. Instead apply a thin coat of foundation make-up to camouflage the freckles. Then apply your beauty aid. For large pale freckles use an eye shadow. When you have the effect of a tan. Now that a freckle is going to mean these word matter.

For evening when the occasion demands more make-up than usual and soft lights can dim or fade out your beauty, apply cosmetics under bright lights. You can tell the exact amount of foundation you need to cover freckles but under soft lights you'll look naturally glamorous.

Remember men like freckles.

Eden-Heitzman Wedding Solemnized at St. John's

Rev. Canon George Biddle officiated at the pretty wedding in St. John's Church Saturday evening which united in marriage Theresa Mary Anna Heitzman and Donald Lewis Eden. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Heitzman, Rutland, B.C., while her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Eden, 3115 Wascana Street.

Entering the church, which was attractively decorated with spring flowers, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white net over taffeta, the full skirt inset with panels of Chantilly lace. Lace was repeated on the collar of her net bolero, styled with lily point sleeves. Sprays of lily of the valley adorned her headdress of pleated net to which her circular veil of nylon net was attached. She carried a bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Don Jones, matron of honor, chose a strapless gown of green net over taffeta, which she topped with a tiny bolero. Her headdress and gloves were en tone and she carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Mrs. Ron Hill, sister of the groom, was bride's matron and the bride's cousin, Miss Frances Westen, bridesmaid. Both wore gowns in shades of mauve and yellow styled similarly to that of the matron of honor, matching gloves and headdress. Their bouquets were spring flowers.

Mr. Don Jones was best man and ushering guests to pews marked with white satin bows were Mr. Howard Eden and Mr. Allen Ball.

Spring flowers were used to decorate Lougheed's Banquet Hall for the reception following the ceremony. Mr. Ray Petch played piano selections while the young couple, assisted by Mrs. S. E. Jones and Mrs. G. S. Eden, mother of the groom, welcomed the guests. Mrs. Jones, who stood proxy for the bride's mother, was attired in navy lace with white accessories while Mrs. Eden chose rose lace with pale blue accessories. Mr. Ed Turner proposed the bridal toast.

For a honeymoon trip to Seattle, Mrs. Eden wore a grey and white tweed topcoat over her grey suit. A red hat and shoes, white blouse and gloves and corsage of white carnations completed her ensemble.

TV Talk

"The Havilands are watching Robert Montgomery."

BY ROY PARRETT

If you missed The Greatest Show on Earth on television two weeks ago, you can see it tonight on CBUT.

The hour-long presentation by the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus will be seen on CBUT at 8.

The special production includes all of the regular circus acts, including the parade of elephants, aerial acts, clown antics, performing animals and even the circus freaks.

* * *

CANCER FILM—"Life Without Fear," a film story of how the Canadian Cancer Society and the Cancer Institute of B.C. operate, will be presented on CBUT tonight at 6.

The story is about a widow in a small B.C. town who, thinking she has cancer, visits her doctor for an examination. He sends her to Vancouver for tests and if necessary, treatment.

The script of the cancer story is by Dick Diespecker, who also handles the narration on tonight's show.

* * *

ADVENTURE STORY — The new show Soldiers of Fortune, on KING-TV at 6 tonight, is gaining in popularity with youngsters and grownups alike. Tonight's tale, "The Runaway King" takes place in the deadly island of Kah-Kah where tabus are so strong that no one ever returns from the place alive. No one except our heroes, John Russell and Chick Chandler, that is.

* * *

MENJOU—If you don't care to watch the circus on CBUT at 8 you might tune in Adolphe Menjou on KING-TV at the same hour. Tonight's drama is about "Colonel Chabert," a military hero believed killed in action 20 years ago, who returns to his home town, unrecognized and disbelieved.

MARTHA RAYE - Madcap Martha has Dennis O'Keefe as guest on her 8 o'clock show on KOMO-TV tonight.

WESTERN MUSIC — Texas Jim Lewis and his gang entertain on Junction Jamboree on KING-TV at 8:30. Guest dancers will add a lively note on the Seattle show, produced live in the KING-TV studios, and one of the most popular "local" shows seen here.

CANADIAN STARS — A young lyric baritone, Murry Keeng who came to Vancouver from Poland a few years ago, will be a contestant on "Pick the Stars" on CBUT at 9, along with other outstanding Canadian entertainers.

WAR STORY — A stirring drama of war, collaboration with the enemy, and torture of prisoners, is "The Rack" the U.S. Steel Hour presentation at 9:30 on Channel 5.

MOVIES — Late shows are "Strange Illusion" on KVOS-TV at 10; "Bulldog Drummond in Africa" on KING-TV at 10:45; "Our Town" on KTNT-TV, also at 10:45; and an Ellery Queen story, "The Spanish Cape Mystery," on KOMO-TV at 11.

At London Auction

Few Bidders Seek Mata Hari Albums

LONDON (UP)—In a bare and lofty auction room on Bond Street the auctioneer called for lot 176: "the personal albums of Mata Hari, dancer and spy.

of buyers to bid up the price. Due to the London newspaper strike only the regulars knew about the auction of photographs, clippings, theatre programs and letters and notes of the most celebrated spy of the First World War.

Neither the seller nor the buyer would disclose his identity. Nor would either tell whether he had more than a collector's interest in the personal effects of the convent-educated Netherlander who became a fake Oriental dancer with a name meaning "Eye of Dawn."

The material auctioned adds only footnotes to the story of Mata Hari, whose real name was Margaret Gertrude Zelle and whose life already has been glamorized far out of range of the truth.

They used to whisper that Mata Hari did not die in the forest of Vincennes in October, 1917, but that wealthy and influential lovers rescued her by putting blanks in the rifles of the firing squad.

But she did die before the firing squad. Photographs showing her body prove it.

EAR INJURED

George Martin, 50, suffered an injury to his left ear when he fell down stairs at 4825 West Saanich Road. He is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mrs. E. Bull, 2872 Colquitz, suffered forehead and rib injuries Sunday night in a collision of cars of Arthur C. Bull and Gordon W. Nixon, HMCS Naden, at Government and Johnson.

The Wootten youngster, son of Saanich license inspector R. H. Wootten, was riding on the running-board of an old-model car driven by his 15-year-old brother, Robert.

Police said the accident occurred near the Wootten home when the car turned too close to the pole.

Slight damage was caused in a freak accident on Gorge Road when a steering wheel came off a towed car.

Police said Sidney V. Stratford, 2834 Dysart Road, lost control of his vehicle and swung into the car of Rose J. LaPierre, 411 Linden, when the wheel came off the steering column.

Long-Overdue Modernization Of Windsor Castle About Set

LONDON (NANA)—The romance of royalty wears a bit thin when one lives in drafty old castles. So, fairy-tale Windsor Castle, where Britain's Royal Family lives part of each year, will soon have some unromantic new plumbing and heating installed.

The long-overdue modernization will cost around $700,000, according to the civil estimates list for the year ending March 31, 1956. The ministry of works expects to start alterations at the end of this year. The job will take five years.

Bringing the heating up to date will mean building a new boiler house. Bathrooms will be improved and a new electrical system installed.

Half-Brothers' Vendetta Ends With Ice-Pick Duel to Death

NEW YORK (UP) — Two half-brothers dueled to the death with ice picks Sunday before the eyes of their horrified mother who had long feared that their bitter feud would end in a violent Cain-and-Abel death.

Hnudreds strolling in their Easter finery stood dazed when they saw Amiello Russo, 45, the father of three children and president of an AFL prasterers' union, slain in the bitter battle.

Steve Romano, 29, Russo's half-brother, was hemmed in by the Brooklyn street audience as he stood over his brother's body, still holding a bloody ice pick.

Romano, a presser, and his father, John, 63, were arrested on homicide charges. Police said Romano's father was held because he gave his son the ice pick with which he killed his half-brother.

When Romano was seized by police, Russo's wife Rose, 37, followed by their three bewildered children, rushed to the scene and threw herself across her husband's still form, crying, "Amiello, Amiello."

The mother, Mrs. Marie Romano, 75, watched the street tragedy from the ground floor window of their home.

She had said repeatedly her sons' feud was "bound to lead to death of one of them."

The mortal clash ended a long-standing quarrel between the half-brothers over title to the two-family dwelling where the two families lived.

Police said Russo was Mrs. Romano's son by her first marriage. When her husband died ownership of the house became clouded.

Actress Stricken

OXNARD, Calif. (UP)—Actress Loretta Young's sudden illness which led to her hospitalization was diagnosed Monday as a "localized peritonitis."

Dr. Hillary Mangin at St. John's Hospital here said Miss Young's condition was not serious but she would be in hospital for the rest of the week. She was taken to the hospital over the week end from her summer home in nearby Glal, Calif. by her husband, radio producer Tom Lewis.

Cute Handful

These Chinese triplets, a little more than a handful for a nurse at hospital in Vancouver, were born to Mr. and Mrs. William Lee. Two of the girls weighed exactly four pounds, the other five pounds two ounces. It was the second triplet birth in the history of St. Vincent's Hospital. The parents had their first child in the same hospital 10 months before.—(CP Photo)

Drug Addict Who Pleaded for Cure Snubs Senate Narcotics Committee

VANCOUVER (CP) — Eddie Jones, a drug addict who made headlines three years ago in a futile quest for a cure for his addiction, said Monday he will refuse to appear before the special Senate narcotics committee here.

The committee announced recently it would ask Jones to appear and give the addict's side of the story when the committee begins a series of hearings here April 18.

"I have no desire to tell anything to the senators," said Jones, who three years ago was the subject of a series of stories in Vancouver newspapers on his quest for a cure of the drug habit.

Jones said in an interview "nobody sounded me out about appearing before the committee" before it was announced he would be asked to testify.

"I won't testify mainly because I don't like the way they're going business and I'm against the case they seem to be building up so far."

Union Ousts George Gee

VANCOUVER (CP)—George Gee, business agent for the Vancouver local of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL-TLC), has been expelled from his union.

The move was announced during the week end by John Raymond of Toronto, international vice-president. The suspension is the first handed an IBEW officer in Vancouver since 1920.

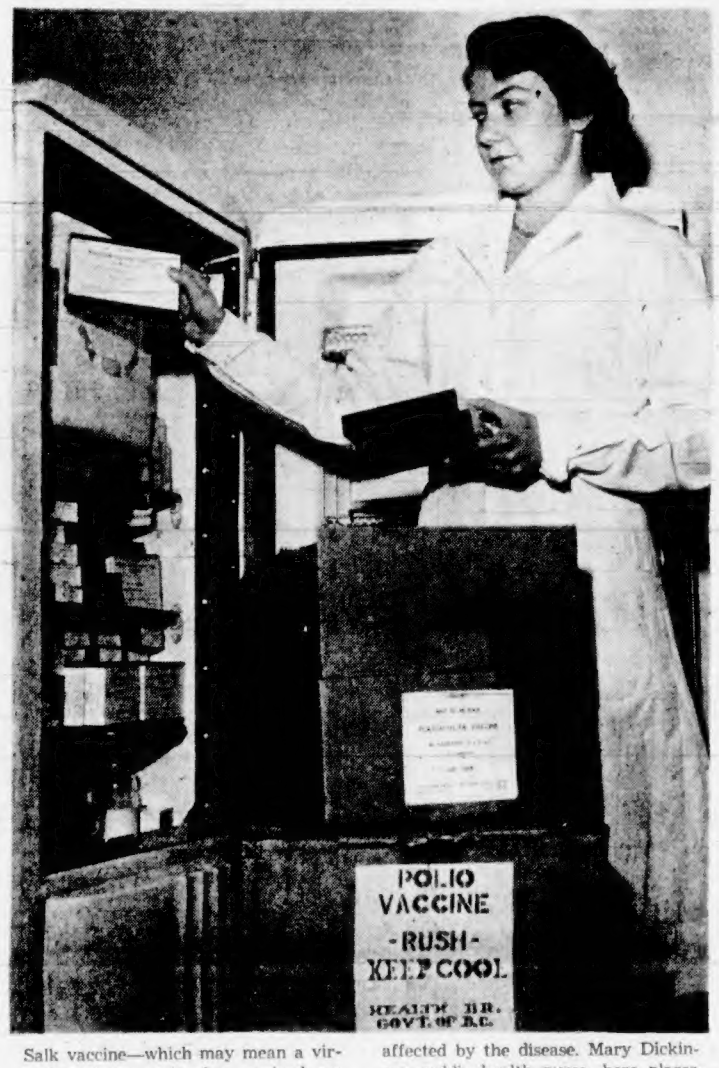
SALK HAS CONQUERED POLIO REPORT TO PROVE

Vaccine Ready for Use Here



Salk vaccine—which may mean a virtual end to polio—has arrived on Vancouver Island for inoculation of primary grade and pre-primary children, the age group most often affected by the disease. Mary Dickinson, public health nurse, here places vaccine under refrigeration. Inoculations begin April 18.

Vaccine Effective

Crippler May Soon Be As Rare as Smallpox

From CP, AP and UP Reports

Salk vaccine is expected to conquer polio—just as smallpox and yellow fever have been virtually eliminated from the modern state.

Scientists will announce today conclusive proof of the efficacy of the Salk vaccine—with which thousands of Greater Victoria children will be inoculated, starting April 18.

At 7.20 a.m. Victoria time the Salk Vaccine results will be given to the world at the annual conference of the American National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., speaking before American and Canadian senior scientists, will confirm that the vaccine can "wipe out polio," says a dispatch from Ann Arbor, Mich.

At the same meeting at the University of Michigan, Dr. Jonas E. Salk, discoverer of the vaccine, will give his all-but-final findings of closely detailed experiments with his vaccine on 8,000 persons, mostly children.

Dr. Francis, University of Michigan epidemiologist, makes his medically historic report after studying for a year the results of vaccination of 440,000 children in the United States, Canada and Finland.

So optimistic is the scientific world that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is already planning to switch its effort to some other field of public health — possibly the control of mental illness.

Dr. Salk, says one dispatch, will show his vaccine a success in the vast majority of cases—which means that when the bulk of a population has been inoculated, especially the children in most susceptible age groups, the disease will begin to disappear, as smallpox and yellow fever have all but disappeared.

DR. JONAS E. SALK

Seek New Field

On the basis of this expectation, Dr. Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, says he and the other trustees of the foundation have decided that their organization would not be dissolved but would work in some other field.

Dr. Francis' announcement is expected to start machinery for mass inoculation.

Connaught laboratories of the University of Toronto, which developed the pure chemical medium in which the polio virus is grown for vaccination purposes, have produced enough vaccine for 600,000 children and have distributed it for use across Canada.

Until last night, at least, Dr. Francis hadn't even told Dr. Salk or anyone else his findings. He was picked for the job of making a scientific analysis because, as one colleague said, "no one can push him around."

Dr. Salk, the University of Pittsburgh research man who once studied under Dr. Francis, and several other prominent scientists will follow Dr. Francis at the conference. Dr. Salk is expected to report new findings from his laboratory which would make the vaccine better than it was at the stage of development when it was used experimentally last year.

At a press conference, Doctors Salk and Francis estimated it would be far too optimistic to expect 100 per cent protection from the vaccine, but it wouldn't need to be 100 per cent effective to be a successful vaccine.

Canada, says an Ottawa dispatch, will move quickly to boost production of the Salk vaccine.

Mass production is possible at the Montreal Institute of Microbiology as well as Toronto's Connaught Laboratories.

By next July, Canada could provide enough vaccine to inoculate 1,000,000 school children, at a cost of about $1.50 each.

Polio Fighters Won't Quit Yet

Kinsmen in British Columbia will continue their "fight polio" campaigns until they are certain that polio is one of the "forgotten diseases," provincial governor E. F. N. Robinson of Ladysmith said last night.

He said an alternative project such as mental health would be "a good idea," but said Kinsmen might turn to schemes of benefit to their own communities rather than a new major project.

"We have never given any consideration to a change because we never realized polio might be at an end," he said.

The matter is almost certain to be considered when Kinsmen clubs of District 5 (British Columbia) hold their annual convention in North Vancouver next month, he added.

Face Retreat — or Hazard of War

Stevenson Hits Eisenhower For 'Dead End Policy in Asia'

CHICAGO (AP) — Adlai Stevenson said Monday night the Eisenhower administration's Far Eastern policy has put the United States into a position where it faces "either another damaging and humiliating retreat, or else the hazard of war."

He said he has "the greatest misgivings about risking a third world war in defense of "Quemoy and Matsu islands, Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist outposts off the Red China coast.

Stevenson said in a broadcast on two radio networks that the Eisenhower administration is "pursing a dead-end policy in Asia," dictated by political expediency at home.

The 1952 Democratic presidential candidate said dissension with America's allies over U.S. policy in regard to the two islands—"the weakening of the grand alliance of free nations pledged to stand together to defend themselves, is in my judgment a greater peril to enduring peace than the islands themselves."

Soviet Russia should be invited "to declare her position," to indicate whether it prefers the possibility of ultimate settlement by agreement to an unpredictable, perhaps limitless conflict."

Stevenson, who said he was speaking in response to requests for his views on U.S. Far Eastern policy, described that policy as "based more on our political difficulties here at home than the realities of our situation in Asia." He urged that "our government promptly consult our friends, yes, and the uncommitted states, too, and ask them all to join with us in an open declaration condemning the use of force in the Formosa strait" and agreeing to "stand with us in the defense of Formosa against aggression."

After 100-Mile Row

Queen's General Hospital said Amos Boucher, 59, of Port la Tour, was in the worst condition of the five who stumbled ashore from their open dory near here Sunday night after a 39-hour row from the spot where the fishing vessel Irma and Rog II sank beneath them.

Doctors said Grant Low, 48, of Greynoldcraft village, joyfully discovered he could see again when he opened his eyes Monday morning after his first sleep since early Friday when the Irma and Rog II went down with 25,000 pounds of fish jammed in her hold.

Boucher froze both hands and doctors said it might become necessary to amputate one or two fingers.

The hospital attributed Low's temporary blindness to shock and the stinging spray that lashed the men for hours on end.

All five were treated for frozen hands or feet.

Low's companions left him lying on the beach because they were too weak from hunger and exposure to carry him and he was too done in to walk. They stumbled 1½ miles to the home of Clyde Smith at St. Catherine's river.

The Smiths fed the men, put them to bed, then called the RCMP and Dr. James MacLeod from Liverpool. The doctor and the police struggled through "mud up to your knees" along the makeshift road and brought Low back to the house with a horse and wagon.

The Irma and Rog II had been inward bound to Port la Tour from the La Havre fishing banks when she began leaking. She sank within minutes.

Teacher Shortage Serious

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia "cannot hope to solve" its shortage of teachers by "importing" them, Hilda Cryderman, president, told the 36th annual convention of the B.C. Teachers' Federation here Monday.

The shortage "must be solved on the home front," she said.

Miss Crydermansaid in the next seven years the estimated school population of the province will increase by 100,000. This will mean an additional 4,000 teachers will be needed in the seven years.

Labor Chief Begins Tour

MONTREAL (CP)—Labor leader Clement Attlee of Britain Monday side-stepped a question as to whether he considers Sir Anthony Eden a "weaker" political opponent than Sir Winston Churchill.

When a reporter noted that Mr. Attlee hesitated on the question, he said with a smile:

"I'm always careful of personalities."

The former British prime minister, who will try to regain power in an election that is freely predicted to come soon, was cagey when queried as to his opinion regarding the date.

When reporters referred to speculation that May 26 would be the date, Mr. Attlee replied:

"Yes, it's mentioned quite a lot, isn't it."

Mr. Attlee said there is no doubt the succession of Sir Anthony Eden to the post of prime minister of Britain will have a bearing on the election but what exactly is hard to tell."

"I always hope to win," he said when asked about his chances.

Queried about Aneurin Bevan, stormy petrel of the British Labor party who recently apologized for defying Attlee policies in the House of Commons, Mr. Attlee said:

He said it is "possible—yes, certainly" that Mr. Bevan would become a minister in the event Labor was successful in the forthcoming election but no thought had been given to "allotment" of a portfolio as yet.

Boy Dies In Car Plunge

TONASKET, Wash. (CP)—A six-year-old boy from Trail, B.C., was killed and the three other members of his family were injured Monday when their car plunged down a 100-foot embankment four miles east of here.

Killed instantly when the car careened off the highway was Stanley Kenneth Craig, son of Rev. and Mrs. H. O. Craig of Trail.

Mr. Craig is pastor of the Christian Alliance Church in Trail.

He was returning home with his family after spending the Easter week end with Mrs. Craig's parents in Kelowna.

Nice Day for a Spin

Phantom Appalls Brooklyn Drivers

NEW WORK (AP) — The phantom driver of Sheepshead Bay was safely in custody Monday after scaring the wits out of a dozen motorists and a policeman. He turned out to be an eight-year-old boy.

The youngster, Frank Biondo, decided it was a fine day to visit his grandmother, who also lives in the Sheepshead Bay area of Brooklyn.

No one was awake, so he started up his dad's new auto and off he went toward Ocean Avenue.

The phantom led them on at speeds up to 60 miles an hour, weaving in and out of traffic.

The phantom clipped a cab at one corner but went on. Finally he brought the car to a smooth stop.

"Why, it was simple," he told Leone. "There was nothing to it."

CAIRO (UP)—The desert king of Yemen, infuriated by a dispute over his harem, personally led a bloody assault that foiled his brother's attempt to seize the throne, it was reported Monday.

The decisive harem incident was disclosed by Lieut.-Col. Hussein El Shaffei, who led an Egyptian mission to the remote desert kingdom after King Imam Ahmed crushed the palace revolt led by his brother, Prince Abdullah.

He disclosed that the key incident leading to the crushing of the revolt was a clash over the harem women between forces loyal to the monarch and followers of his brother.

The king requested his brother's men to permit the women to be evacuated from the harem to another palace, Shaffei reported. The insurgent garrison commander, however, insisted on searching all the women before letting them out.

This was reported to have so angered the king that he immediately took up arms against the besieging force. Ahmed himself fired on the revolutionaries and was quickly joined by his supporters in a successful rout of enemy forces.

Daffodils Wanted for Shut-Ins — First Collection Friday

Colonist Again Sponsors Share the Flowers Plan

BY LAWRIE JOSLIN

The Daily Colonist's popular Share the Flowers plan, which brought brightness and cheer to hundreds of shut-ins in the Victoria area last year, is to be re-introduced this year.

Seth Halton, publisher of the Colonist, said yesterday the paper has decided to reorganize and sponsor the plan again as a public service.

Share the Flowers won the gratitude of hospital patients, the generous support of home gardeners, and high praise from community leaders when it was first introduced by the Colonist last July.

Through the plan, home gardeners are able to offer surplus blooms from their gardens for collection and distribution among hospital patients and other shut-ins unable to enjoy the pleasures of a garden.

Daffodils, golden queens of the early spring garden, will be collected from donors Friday morning and taken the same day to patients at the Veterans Hospital and Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Further collections and distributions will be made on succeeding Fridays while the daffodil season lasts.

Share the Flowers will operate at intervals throughout the spring, summer and fall as other varieties of flowers become available in quantity.

Distribution will be rotated as it was last year among a number of hospitals and nursing homes in the Greater Victoria area.

St. Joseph's Hospital, Rest Haven Hospital at Sidney, St. Mary's Priory, the Gorge Road Hospital, the Aged Women's Home, the Aged Men's Home and the Naval Hospital at Esquimalt will all receive surplus blooms in addition to the two institutions benefitting from the first collection.

Home gardeners with more daffodils than they can use are asked to phone the Colonist at 3,4111 before 5 p.m. Thursday.

Volunteer drivers will be needed again this year to collect flowers and bring them to a central collection point. Each driver will be given a short list of addresses for collection.

Drviers willing to assist are asked to phone the Colonist by 10 a.m. Thursday.

It would be appreciated if donors would tie their daffodils in bundles or wrap them in paper for collection.

Mr. Halton said there is no question of the success of Share the Flowers if the gardeners who have made Victoria famous as a city of gardens prove as warm-hearted in their response as last year.

Vaccine Ready for Use Here

Salk vaccine—which may mean a virtual end to polio—has arrived on Vancouver Island for inoculation of primary grade and pre-primary children, the age group most often affected by the disease. Mary Dickinson, public health nurse, here places vaccine under refrigeration. Inoculations begin April 18.

Medical World Awaits Proof

Salk Vaccine Can Conquer Polio Historic Report To Show Today

Mass Inoculations May Soon Follow

From CP, AP and UP Reports

Salk vaccine is expected to conquer polio—just as smallpox and yellow fever have been virtually eliminated from the modern state.

Scientists will announce today conclusive proof of the efficacy of the Salk vaccine—with which thousands of Greater Victoria children will be inoculated, starting April 18.

At 7.20 a.m. Victoria time the Salk Vaccine results will be given to the world at the annual conference of the American National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., speaking before American and Canadian senior scientists, will confirm that the vaccine can "wipe out polio," says a dispatch from Ann Arbor, Mich.

At the same meeting at the University of Michigan, Dr. Jonas E. Salk, discoverer of the vaccine, will give his all-but-final findings of closely detailed experiments with his vaccine on 8,000 persons, mostly children.

Dr. Francis, University of Michigan epidemiologist, makes his medically historic report after studying for a year the results of vaccination of 440,000 children in the United States, Canada and Finland.

So optimistic is the scientific world that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is already planning to switch its effort to some other field of public health — possibly the control of mental illness.

Dr. Salk, says one dispatch, will show his vaccine a success in the vast majority of cases — which means that when the bulk of a population has been inoculated, especially the children in most susceptible age groups, the disease will begin to disappear, as smallpox and yellow fever have all but disappeared.

DR. JONAS E. SALK

Seek New Field

On the basis of this expectation, Dr. Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, says he and the other trustees of the foundation have decided that their organization would not be dissolved but would work in some other field.

Dr. Francis' announcement is expected to start machinery for mass inoculation.

Connaught laboratories of the University of Toronto, which developed the pure chemical medium in which the polio virus is grown for vaccination purposes, have produced enough vaccine for 600,000 children and have distributed it for use across Canada.

Until last night, at least, Dr. Francis hadn't even told Dr. Salk or anyone else his findings. He was picked for the job of making a scientific analysis because, as one colleague said, "no one can push him around."

Dr. Salk, the University of Pittsburgh research man who once studied under Dr. Francis, and several other prominent scientists will follow Dr. Francis at the conference. Dr. Salk is expected to report new findings from his laboratory which would make the vaccine better than it was at the stage of development when it was used experimentally last year.

At a press conference, Doctors Salk and Francis estimated it would be far too optimistic to expect 100 per cent protection from the vaccine, but it wouldn't need to be 100 per cent effective to be a successful vaccine.

Canada, says an Ottawa dispatch, will move quickly to boost production of the Salk vaccine.

Mass production is possible at the Montreal Institute of Microbiology as well as Toronto's Connaught Laboratories.

By next July, Canada could provide enough vaccine to inoculate 1,000,000 school children, at a cost of about $1.50 each.

Polio Fighters Won't Quit Yet

Kinsmen in British Columbia will continue their "fight polio" campaigns until they are certain that polio is one of the "forgotten diseases," provincial governor E. F. N. Robinson of Ladysmith said last night.

He said an alternative project such as mental health would be "a good idea," but said Kinsmen might turn to schemes of benefit to their own communities rather than a new major project.

"We have never given any consideration to a change because we never realized polio might be at an end," he said.

The matter is almost certain to be considered when Kinsmen clubs of District 5 (British Columbia) hold their annual convention in North Vancouver next month, he added.

Reds Attempt To Disrupt CCF

A "definitely Communist" organization known as Box 16 has been trying to disrupt the CCF in British Columbia with anonymous letters for a year, a Saanich CCF leader confirmed last night.

But the former MLA, Frank Snowsell, disagreed with Vancouver reports that described the organization as an underground movement within the CCF.

"I have no reason to suspect that it includes CCF members," he said.

DRIVE PLANNED

Vancouver's two afternoon newspapers said the executive of the British Columbia CCF party is expected to begin a drive to root out Box-16 at the opening session of the CCF provincial convention Friday.

Their reports followed announcement at Toronto that 14 members of the CCF party in Ontario have lost their membership for belonging to a Communist organization, identified as the Canadian section of the fourth Trotskyist international.

Mr. Snowsell said he had heard nothing about an executive drive against the Communists and another Saanich leader, Dr. J. M. Thomas, commented:

"As far as I know there has been no issue at all in such terms as the Vancouver papers use."

Both Dr. Thomas and Mr. Snowsell admitted that there was some difference of opinion within the CCF over the handling of the Rod Young case last year.
